TRIP OFFICIAL . . .

Nixon Goes To Vietnam

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) — President Nixon took off early Wednesday for a secrecy-cloaked one day trip to Vietnam. Although the traveling White House refused to announce his destination, it was known to be somewhere in the Saigon area.

The President and Mrs. Nixon took an American helicopter bearing the presidential seal from the grand palace in Bangkok to the airport, 15 miles from town.

Nixon wore a dark blue business suit and his wife wore a powder-blue summer dress.

He was accompanied by the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, and by the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Ellsworth Bunker and Mrs. Bunker, who is Ambassador Carol Laise, the U.S. envoy to Nepal.

Return Planned

Nixon will return to Bangkok Wednesday night to wind up his three-day stay in Thailand.

Reliable sources indicated that Nixon would visit one base around Saigon during his stay and make a speech to American troops.

Shortly after Nixon left Bangkok, a communications blackout was imposed in Saigon on outgoing news dispatches. It was believed that the blackout would continue until the President was on his way back to Thailand.

The sources reported that Nixon would lunch with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu at the Independence Palace in downtown Saigon as a dramatic show of confidence in the security of the capital.

The suddenness and the security-dictated secrecy of Nixon's Vietnam travel arrangements were reminiscent of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's two brief visits while he was on Asian trips. Johnson flew into Cam Ranh Bay, a big, relatively secure U.S. base some 180 miles northeast of Saigon, in October 1966 and again in December 1967.

Nixon, however was described as wanting to follow a different pattern from his predecessor — partly to avoid being identified with Johnson's war policies.

Fighting Drops

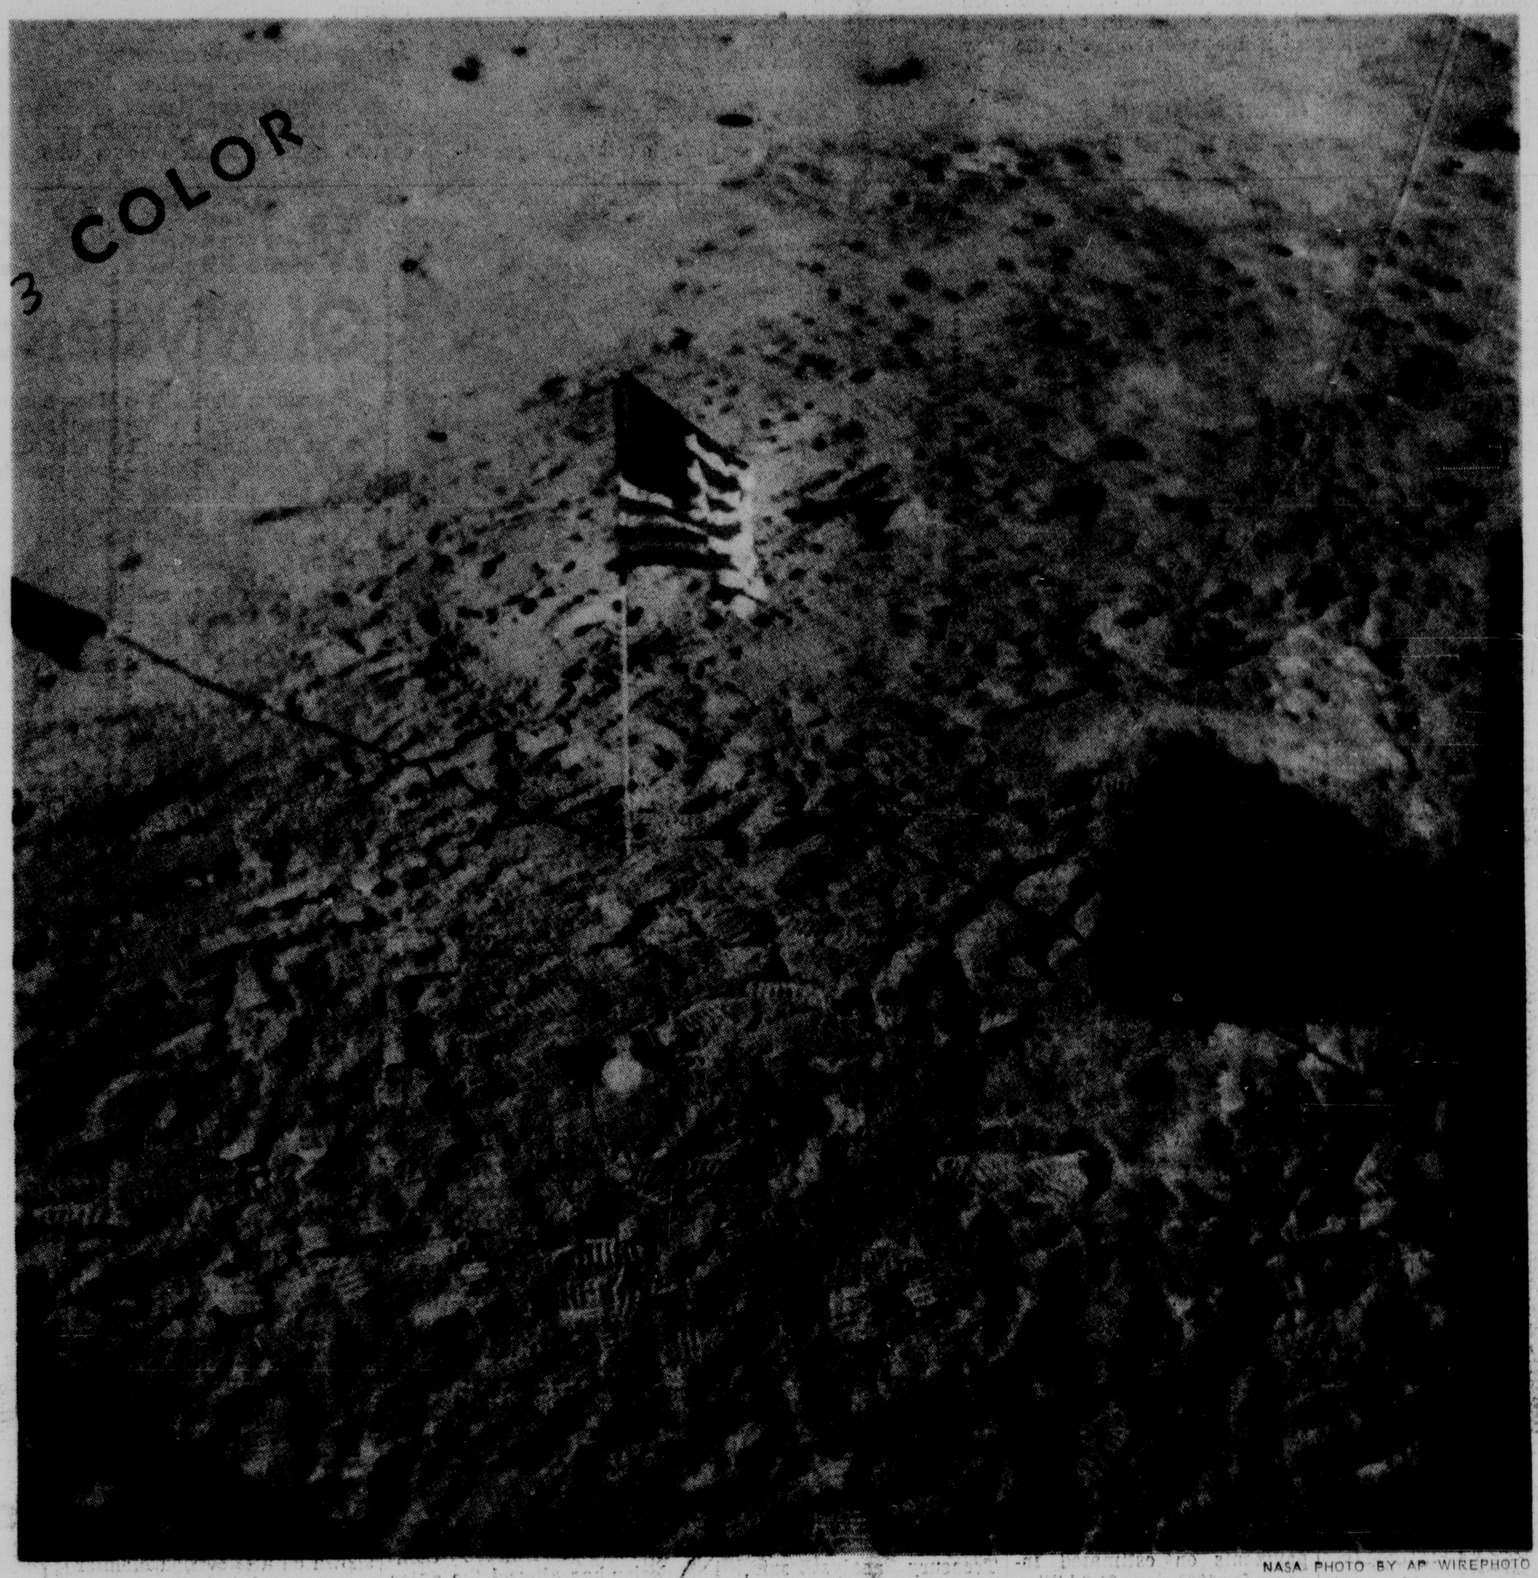

It was also reported that the III Corps area round Saigon, which includes a large U.S. Army base at Long Binh and an airfield at Bien Hoa, had the lowest level of enemy activity last week since 1965.

Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey went to Saigon for Thieu's inauguration in 1967. The enemy lobbed five shells into the Presidential Palace area in the heart of the capital while Humphrey was there.

The President and White House spokesmen had been saying right along that he had "no plans" to go to South Vietnam — without ruling out the possibility.

The Bangkok visit was midway in Nixon's journey that began with the Philippines and Indonesia and continues Thursday. He goes on to India, Pakistan, Romania and England.

His Thai visit is probably the most important of his stops in laying the groundwork for U.S. policy in this area after the Vietnam war, both because of Thailand's cornerstone position in Southeast Asian security and because of his meetings with senior U.S. officials here.

World Given A Look . . . AT PICTURES

These scenes dominated the first release of pictures taken by Edwin D. Aldrin and Neil A. Armstrong during man's first visit to an alien world.

There were four extremely sharp color transparencies and 150 feet of color movie film in the first release. Four additional color still released later incuded a shot of earth and portrait of Armstrong at the controls of his landing craft.

Most were shot by Aldrin from the windows of the Eagle moon lander. The space agency said the pictures were the first of many to be released this week, including pictures taken by the astronauts of each other walking and working on the lunar surface.

Scientists in an $11.5 million quarantine laboratory in Houston, meanwhile, started tests to see if the lunar surface harbored any kind of life before the men of Apollo 11 landed there July 20.

Laboratory technicians ground up pieces of the black moon soil brought back by Aldrin, Neil A. Armstrong and Michael Collins and mixed the powder with sterile water, preparing to inject it into germ-free mice and six different types of tissue cultures.

Elsewhere in the laboratory, Armstrong, Aldrin and Collins — who circled the moon while his companions landed — spent their third day of debriefing telling about the long flight home and scientists continued their examination of the moon rocks the spacemen brought back.

Best In Batch

The four color transparencies were the best pictures in Tuesday's batch. The movies, which included Eagle's descent to the surface, were not quite as clear and at times looked washed out.

Perhaps the most spectacular shots was one centering on the three-by-five foot American flag the astronauts planted on an eight-foot golden staff, and another looking down on the many footprints around one of Eagle's legs — mute evidence stamped in the lunar soil that two men had walked Tranquillity Base.

"Doesn't it make your heart pound a little harder," said a secretary at the space center as she gazed at the photographs.

Long Shadow

The flag, casting a long shadow to the left in the low sun of lunar morning, appeared to ripple on the spring holding it out on the airless plains of the Sea of Tranquillity.

The movie sequence, which lasted eight minutes when shown at the correct speed, opened with Eagle skimming lower across the top of bright, round craters as it prepared to land.

It dodged a crater Armstrong described as being as big as a football field and filled with rocks, and settled to the surface with dust shooting out in spoke-like rays from its descent engine's blast. Darkness blanked out the scene the moment Eagle

Unicam Endorses Bulging Ed Package

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Unicameral Tuesday endorsed a bulging package of major education bills which would establish a state vocational technical school in Omaha, and create new state aid programs for area vocational technical schools and nurses training.

Breaking the logjam which had trapped education proposals for four days was 22-1 first round approval of a totally-revised measure to establish a statewide system of community colleges.

Included in that proposal, LB979, is a new state aid program for area vocational technical schools and increased state financial assistance for junior colleges.

Estimated price tag: nearly $4 million a year.

LB177, proposing the state school at Omaha, was advanced on a 22-0 count almost without debate.

$1 Million

Gov. Norbert Tiemann has proposed that such a school be funded with $1 million.

State aid to the University of Nebraska, state colleges, junior colleges and vocational technical schools for students in nurses training programs gained 20-0 first stage approval.

The proposal, LB538, would authorize assistance at a rate not to exceed $600 per student for training of both professional and practical nurses.

Its sponsor, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, guessed that the program might cost about $500,000 for the current biennium.

Postponed

Postponed for consideration next Monday was the fourth major education bill awaiting initial debate. That proposal LB205, would coordinate higher education activities throughout the state.

Earlier Tuesday, before it moved the trio of bills over their first hurdle, the Legislature sent on its way to final reading an amended measure which would establish state aid to area vocational technical schools at a rate of $15 per semester residential credit hour.

The proposal, now contained in LB216, will serve as an alternate means of launching the new state aid program in the event that LB979 stumbles along the way. Its cost has been estimated at about $3 million a year.

LB979 proposes the same level of state funding.

Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox won approval of the amendment to LB216, which would eliminate state aid for establishment of a new area vocational technical schools.

Another bill awaiting final reading action, LB1280, serves as an alternate financing measure for increased aid to junior colleges.

Both LB1280 and LB979 propose assistance at a level of $10 per semester resident credit hour.

Six Districts

The revised version of LB979 would establish six community college districts throughout the state to operate junior colleges and area vocational technical schools.

Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance attempted to revive a proposal under which the state would have assumed full financial responsibility for area schools, but he was rebuffed on a 17-16 count. His motion needed 25 votes.

Sen. Don Hanna Jr. of Brownlee was turned down, on a 12-12 tie vote, when he sought to cut in half the two-mill local property tax levy limit for operational expenditures by community college districts.

Hearings On Objections Set By State Equalization Board

The State Board of Equalization Tuesday invited counties which object to the state tax commissioner's recommended property valuation increases to appear before the board on Aug. 7, 11 and 12.

This action followed further explanation of the proposed new valuations submitted by Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil after his tour of the state for hearings with the counties.

The Sandhills counties, which have previously objected to property valuation hikes, are expected to be first up at the board's hearings.

No changes have been recommended in 24 counties, but Randall Rinquest, the tax commissioner's chief legal officer, expects "a majority" of the remaining 69 counties will ask to appear before the board.

The board accepted without change the counties' valuations during the past two years, and last year even dispensed with the customary summer appeals to the board.

McNeil said Tuesday the proposed increases are "conservative in those counties which have not undergone recent reappraisals."

He said future reappraisals likely will yield even larger boosts.

McNeil said recent reappraisals in the Sandhills counties were used in determining the recommended increases for equalization purposes.

Sales-assessment studies were compared with a recently completed statewide agricultural statistics study, he said.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture statistical study indicates land values higher than those developed in land sales study," he said.

"Farmers and ranchers have apparently told the USDA that their land is worth more than they have told taxing authorities," he added.

McNeil said his recommended increases equalize those counties, which have recently completed reappraisals, with those which have not yet undergone reappraisals or are in the process.

He said the valuations on a statewide average are still below the 35% of actual value as required by state law.

The state board is composed of Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, Secretary of State Frank Marsh, State Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson, State Auditor Ray Johnson and McNeil.

Murray Dies; Convicted In Slaying Of Policeman

Arthur C. Murray, the man thought to be the one who pulled the trigger in the 1967 shotgun slaying of Lincoln Police Detective Paul Whitehead, died Tuesday morning at the Nebraska Penitentiary.

Warden Maurice Sigler said Murray, 36, collapsed late Tuesday morning on his way back to his cell in the prison's maximum security unit.

The prisoner had just finished taking a shower and was returning to his cell when suddenly he "slumped over" and fell, Sigler said.

No immediate cause of death was given. The physician in charge of the autopsy said the findings would probably be released to the County Attorney's office Wednesday.

Murray, serving a life sentence, was one of three Indiana prison escapees charged in the Whitehead slaying.

ARTHUR C. MURRAY,

The three had escaped from the Indiana State Penitentiary at Michigan City, Ind., by scaling a 42-foot wall Aug. 3, 1967, a week before the Lincoln killing.

Murray's two companions, Howard Crooks, 38, and James H. Byrd, 32, pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

New York Times News Summary

Nixon Prepares To Visit Saigon Leaders

(C) New York Times News Service

Bangkok — Having won what he considered to be approval of his do-it-yourself defense concept from leaders in Thailand, President Nixon prepared to leave Bangkok for South Vietnam. Nixon has been advising Asian allies that they can count on much American aid, but probably no combat forces. (More on Page 1.)

El Salvador To Withdraw

Washington — El Salvador, confronted with the immediate threat of severe economic sanctions, told the Organization of American States that it would withdraw its occupation troops from Honduras. The announcement was greeted with exuberance by the hemisphere foreign ministers here. (More on Page 2.)

New Berlin Approach Planned

Tokyo — In a general review of the international situation, Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a cabinet-level American-Japanese meeting here that the Nixon administration is planning a fresh approach to the Soviet Union on the Berlin problem as part of a general probing of Moscow's intentions toward easing tensions. (More on Page 2.)

Israelis Felt Stronger

Washington — In their latest appraisal of the Middle East crisis, American analysts predict that Israel would again defeat the United Arab Republic though in a longer, bloodier fight than that of June, 1967. On the basis of rational behavior, the planners do not expect a full-scale conflict in the near future.

Film Of Moon Released

Houston — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released a four-sequence color movie film which showed the world for the first time the final descent onto the moon made by the Apollo 11 astronauts. The film also contained footage of Neil A. Armstrong descending the lunar module ladder. (More on Page 1.)

Surtax Deadline Nears

Washington — "A war of nerves" over the question of the continuation of the income tax surcharge was still being waged by the administration and the Senate while the deadline of Thursday midnight for some type of action moved closer. The Senate Democratic leadership remained firm on its wish that a tax reform bill be considered first. (More on Page 21.)

Drug Firms Face Action

Washington — Charging that drug companies have commissioned some studies "of poor quality," Sen. Gaylord Nelson said he would seek legislation that would impose rigorous tests on experimental drugs that would eventually be purchased by American consumers.

Dodd Doubts Gun Laws

Washington — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, a leading spokesman for stronger gun control legislation, said he did not think Congress would adopt a proposal by the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence that would remove from circulation some 90% of all handguns owned by citizens.

Judge Orders Warrants

Trenton, N.J. — New Jersey Superior Court Judge George Barlow ordered the immediate issue of bench warrants for the arrest of two reputed Mafia leaders who fled an inquiry into organized crime by the state commission of investigation.

Halpern Admits Debts

Washington — Responding to a report that he was "deeply in hock," Rep. Seymour Halpern of New York said he did have "a number of loans and several personal debts," but added that these did not conflict with his duties as a member of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Pill Study Printed

New York — A British medical journal has published a controversial study concerning birth control pills that was initially rejected by the Journal of the American Medical Association for reasons that are still not clear. The study found a more likely occurrence of early cancer of the cervix in women using the pill as opposed to those who use diaphragms.

Al Fatah Warns U. N. Observers

By United Press International

The leading Arab guerrilla organization Al Fatah Tuesday said U.N. truce observers stand in the way of the liberation of Palestine and occupied Arab territory from Israel and warned they will be treated as enemies.

The warning came as Israel reported one Arab boy was killed and four more Arab youths injured in an explosion in the Gaza Strip blamed on Arab guerrillas. Two Israeli civilians were wounded in a mine explosion in the Jordan Valley.

Only sporadic fighting was reported across the Suez Canal, scene of repeated air and artillery battles during the past 10 days in which Egypt and Israel claimed major victories. One Israeli soldier was reported wounded in a brief clash with Jordanian forces across the Jordan River south of the Sea of Galilee during the day.

'Voice Of Storm'

Al Fatah's warning came in a broadcast from Cairo over its "Voice of Storm" radio. It is the biggest of the Palestinian Arab guerrilla organizations and its commandos have staged numerous terrorist and sabotage strikes against the Israelis.

A broadcast over the Israel armed forces radio on Monday said 222 Arab guerrillas were killed in 647 clashes in the Jordan Valley alone during the past 15 months. Israeli losses for the same period were reported as 40 dead and 70 wounded.

Al Fatah said the U.N. truce observers stand in the way of Arab conquest of Palestine and other Israeli-occupied territory.

"Anyone who bars the way to liberation is our enemy and will be declared as such," the broadcast said.

Israel Said Protected

It said the U.N. truce observers were stationed in the Middle East to protect Israel and to "carry out the proposed political settlement" already rejected by the Arabs.

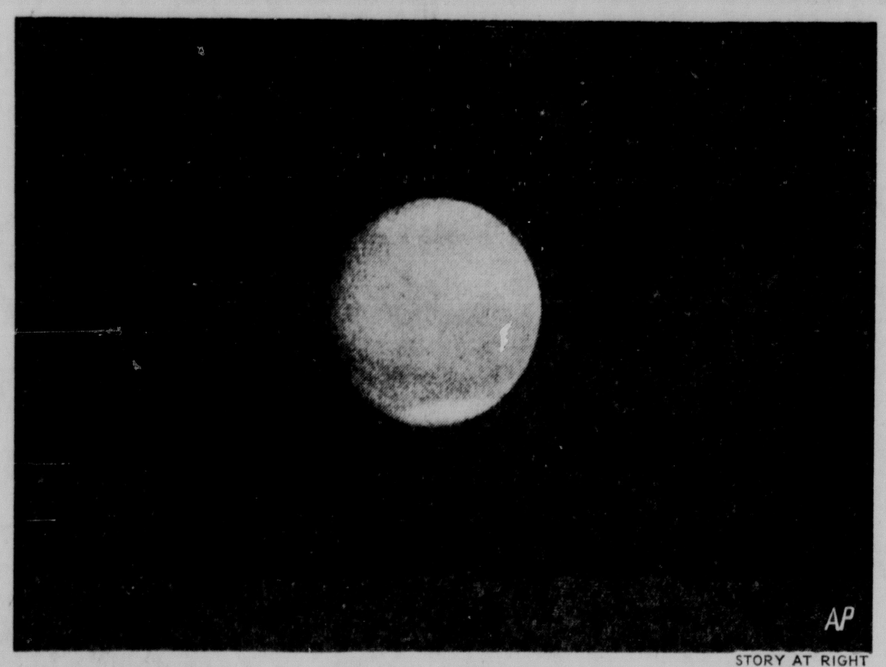

Al Fatah was commenting on reports that U.N. Secretary General Thant was considering withdrawing U.N. truce teams from the Middle East because of the death of Swedish Maj. Bo Roland Plane during an Egyptian-Israeli gun duel across the Suez Canal last Sunday. Egypt said Plane was killed when an Israeli shell hit his observation post.

In New York, however, all seven countries contributing personnel to the U.N. mideast force agreed that observers must remain on the cease-fire lines. The agreement was reached at an informal meeting of representatives of Argentina, Austria, Chile, Finland, France, Ireland and Sweden Monday with Brian Urquhart of Britain, deputized by Thant to call the session.

An Israeli spokesman reported two Israeli civilians were wounded when their car hit a mine which he said was planted by Arab guerrillas in the Jordan Valley about eight miles south of the Sea of Galilee.

Police sources said an 11-year-old Arab boy was killed and four young playmates injured in an explosion at the Jabiliya refugee camp with an explosive charge they found near an abandoned police station in the camp outside Gaza Strip. The explosive was planted by Arab guerrillas to blow up the station which was vacated some weeks ago, the sources said.

Economists Fear Surplus Indicates Anti-Inflation Measures Not Working

Washington (AP) — The unexpected size of the government's budget surplus leads some economists to fear anti-inflation measures are not taking hold — and worse, that people may not expect them to work.

The most troublesome part of the surplus, aside from problems the timing of its announcement on Monday may cause in getting a surtax extension through the Senate, is the magnitude of unexpected income taxes.

Payments of final taxes on calendar 1968 income and payments on estimated income for 1969 were $1.9 billion above predictions.

Major Contributor

They were a major contributor to the $3.1 billion surplus, which was almost $2.2 billion higher than official predictions made less than a week ago. The administration predicts a $6.3-billion surplus for the fiscal year that began July 1, assuming Congress extends the surtax.

About half the $1.9 billion, tax experts estimate, came because high-bracket taxpayers' June estimates of their income were higher than the Treasury Department thought they would be.

Two tax experts agreed the increase could be interpreted as — in the words of one — "indications we haven't been successful on the inflation front."

Surprising

The high estimate was particularly surprising, a Treasury analyst said, in view of the decline of the stock market. But he predicted that future estimates — the next is made in September — would reflect the decline.

The estimating method is used by people whose income is uncertain, and most of those are in the high brackets and would be more likely than middle-income salaried people to invest in stocks.

Several key economic indicators have given little cheer to the anti-inflation warriors.

The Commerce Department's latest monthly review of the business situation, for June, said flatly that "inflationary pressures remained severe."

Union Pacific Rail Hearings Revised

A revised order from the Interstate Commerce Commission has altered the dates for hearings on the proposed discontinuance of Union Pacific passenger trains Nos. 5 and 6, according to the Nebraska Railway Commission.

The new schedule puts hearings in Omaha, Aug 5 and 6; Grand Island, Aug. 8; North Platte, Aug. 11, and Sidney, Aug. 12.

Mariner 6 Sends Pictures Of Mysterious Red Planet

Pasadena, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 6 sent 32⅔ pictures across 58 million miles of space Tuesday night — some with new information—as it hurtled toward a close flyby of the mysterious red planet Mars.

Most were fuzzy and indistinct but scientists said the later photos in the series showed these hitherto unknown features: the south polar ice cap has ragged edges, and it has a strange dark patch in its center.

The early pictures were likened by one observer to blurry views of a dirty marshmallow.

Quality Improves

But quality improved and the ragged edge showed up on frame 20. A spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory commented later: "Perhaps the most exciting results is that some pictures show a ragged edge on the southern polar cap, possibly caused by the presence of mountains or craters. This is new information."

The cap's dark spot showed on frame 30. The spokesman said this had not been seen before, and no information was available on its nature. Another feature of final shots was that the north polar cap, barely discernable in early photos, stood out brightly.

The 33rd and final frame was only two-thirds completed due to premature shut off of the camera.

A spokesman at the laboratory, where pictures were shown on a television monitor screen, said that despite the poor quality of most shots they could be substantially enhanced. This is done by running the signal through a computer and printing them photographically.

Egg-Shaped

The first of a batch of 33 showed a dull gray egg-shaped body with a bright spot on the right, the southern polar cap. The TV pictures showed the planet on its side so to speak, with the equator vertical. The egg shape was due to part of the eastern hemisphere being in night shadow.

The televised shots — showing Mars glowing against a black background — failed to match in detail a simulated shot of Mars based on photos through earth telescopes. experts had hoped they would.

The tiny space voyager, traveling 16,000 miles per hour, began its reconnaissance mission with a series of 33 photos taken over 20 hours from distances between 771,000 and 450,000 miles.

El Salvador Agrees To Call Back Troops

Washington (UPI) — El Salvador agreed Tuesday to pull occupation troops out of neighboring Honduras, bringing an informal end to the two-week-old undeclared war between the two Central American republics.

The Salvadorean agreement, announced to the Organization of American States (OAS) in emergency session in Washington, came after OAS threats to brand El Salvador an aggressor nation in the conflict and impose diplomatic and economic sanctions.

El Salvador's decision to retire the troops it has pushed as far as 45 miles into Honduras was an informal one, announced by the Salvadorean delegation to the OAS. However, it was confidently expected it would be ratified quickly by the San Salvador government.

A spokesman for the Honduras delegation in Washington said he had received unconfirmed reports from Tegucigalpa that the Salvadorean withdrawal of troops had already begun.

War between the two small Central American republics broke out July 14 when El Salvador launched an air and ground attack against Honduras. The Hondurans retaliated with air attacks on a half-dozen major Salvadorean cities.

Moon View Spectacular

touched down, its window facing away from the sun.

Then Armstrong appeared. His round, white helmet and white padded backpack bobbed into view as he took his last step down to Eagle's footpad and swung to his left to plant his booted left foot on the lunar dust at 9:56:20 p.m. CDT July 20.

From Aldrin's perch inside Eagle, Armstrong was visible only from head to knees as he stepped to the surface. There were no photographs of his foot actually hitting the moon, leaving the world with only a shadowy television picture to record this historic event.

Armstrong backed away from the Eagle and Aldrin opened up his lens to let more light reach the film, causing the brownish moonscape to appear washed out. Eagle's silhouette dominated the foreground, but on the film it appeared greenish instead of black.

With Slowness

Armstrong moved with the same unearthly slowness, almost floating, earth viewers first saw in the live black and white moonwalk telecast. But in the film clip released Tuesday he moved only a few feet from Eagle, untangling a safety line attached to his chest.

The 16 millimeter movie sequence ended with a slow panorama of Tranquillity Base, the horizon a scant three miles away and obviously curved.

All the still pictures released Tuesday were taken on 70mm color film after Armstrong and Aldrin returned to Eagle at the end of their two-hour moonwalk. Neither appeared in these shots.

Their footprints, 13 inches long and 6 inches wide with 10 ribbed treads in each print, peppered three of the pictures and a few appeared in the fourth.

In the flag picture the moon soil appeared rickly red-brown, and in a shot of Eagle's bulky shadow tapered from light lavender on the left to red-brown on the right. But in the other two it was almost exactly the brownish-gray with blast highlights the astronauts saw.

One picture showed the tiny moonquake meter — which already has sent back signals scientists think represent moonquakes and moonslides — and the laser reflector that has not yet worked. They pointed back toward earth, the target the astronauts sought a little later.

4 SPF Hog Producers Cited For Contributions

Awards to four Nebraska SPF hog producers were presented Tuesday during the ninth annual SPF Swine Conference at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Eldon Neddenriep, Johnson; Ed Svajgr, Diller; Walter Brown, Grant; and Stan Schelkopf, Shickley, received awards for specific contributions to the program over the past year from Richard Coupe, Nebraska SPF coordinator.

Neddenriep received the award for the high average 140-day weight. Eighty head of his purebred Durocs and Hampshires averaged 205.9 pounds.

The award for low average backfat measurment went to Svajgr. His average was 0.86 inches on 199 head.

The high average SPF index award for 1968 went to Brown. The index is computed from the 140-day weight and backfat measurement of all boars and gilts. To obtain a high index, a combination of high 140-day weights and low backfat readings at 200 pounds are necessary. Brown, who has recently retired from swine production, obtained an index of 148 on 72 head.

Schlekopf, manager of Cornhusker Farms at Shickley, had the overall top SPF herd production average with 186 pounds at 140 days and 0.95 inches backfat on 3,629 head of purebred Hampshires, Yorkshires and Durocs.

In 11 years the Nebraska SPF program has built breeding stock from average crossbred swine to many of the nation's top purebred bloodlines, Coupe reported to the conference.

The Nebraska SPF Swine Accreditation Program was established in 1958 after several years of research by the late Dr. George A. Young, former University of Nebraska Department of Veterinary Science chairman.

Eleven years ago the program started with 100% crossbred stock and now consists of 95% purebred stock. At first, average litter size and weight declined, but since 1962 have remained relatively stable. Backfat has declined one-half inch over the last six years.

In 1968 the individual five-month average weight was 204 pounds. This is second only to the 207-pound average of 1959. Coupe pointed out, however, that 12.6 times more animals are represented in 1968.

Dr. Adin H. Webb, 81, of 1130 H St., a general practioner for 50 years, died Tuesday.

Dr. Webb was born at Loveland, Colo., and attended high school in Abilene, Kan., with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He attended Kansas State University for two years, and graduated from the University of Nebraska in 1916. He took post-graduate work at Washington University.

He and his wife went to China from 1924 to 1927, where Dr. Webb was a medical missionary in Yaan, near the Tibetan border.

After returning to Lincoln Dr. Webb established a practice until his retirement in 1959.

He was a member of First Baptist Church, American Medical Association, Nebraska Medical Association, Lancaster Medical Association, Lincoln Medical Association, American Interprofessional Institute and the American Legion.

He is survived by his wife, Eda, a son Adin R. of Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., two daughters, Mrs. William Underwood of Underwood Kas., and Mrs. Clifford Johnson of Abilene, Kas., and five grandsons.

Best Friend's Accidental Shot Kills Omaha Boy

Omaha (AP)—Police say the death by a shotgun blast of a 14-year-old Omaha boy was accidental.

Charles P. George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard George died Tuesday afternoon after being struck in the chest by a shot fired by Michael McCormick, 16, of Omaha, police said.

The victim and his brother were visiting the home of another youth, police said, when McCormick pointed the shotgun at the victim, who had opened the door to enter the house, and pulled the trigger, not realizing the gun was loaded.

Witnesses said the dead boy and McCormick were "best friends."

7 Macy Men Face Kidnap, Rape Counts

Pender (AP) — Seven Macy, Neb., men, ranging in age from 17 to 31, have been charged in Thurston County Court with rape and kidnaping of a 20-year-old Omaha woman east of Walthill early Saturday.

Thurston County Sheriff Clyde Storie said an Omaha couple had been camping and their car became stuck near Big Elk Park. A car with seven young men stopped and offered assistance.

Storie said after they freed the car they demanded more money than the Omaha man had paid them. The man was beaten up and fled, and the woman was forced into the car with the seven, Storie said. The Omaha man notified authorities and a manhunt produced the vehicle with the woman and six of the seven men.

In Thurston County jail with bonds set at $25,000 each are: Wayne Goham, 23; William Cayou, 22; Everett Bexter, 19; Thomas Davis, 17; and Levi Levering, 18; and Victor Robinson, 17. Sheriff Storie said a warrant charging Dennis Tyndall, 31, with the same offenses has been issued.

Police said the car did not stop. The girl was pushed home by her brother on a bicycle after she was struck.

Vernon Buller, director of development for the school, said the Eppley gift is contingent upon raising the other $30,000 by August of 1970. At present the fund shows $1,200 of this needed balance, and the college is seeking donors for the project. It is hoped that the organ can be purchased during the coming academic year.

Loder Hearing Is Postponed

Omaha (UPI) —A hearing scheduled for Tuesday morning to appeal the suspension and eventual dismissal of Patrolman James L. Loder from the Omaha police force was postponed. No new date was set.

Loder was not present at the meeting of the City Personnel Board.

Loder's attorney, Joseph Vance, asked for a continuance of the case for at least two weeks because of another case he is presently working on in District Court.

Board member F. Jerome Gibben asked assurance that the board will return to the spot where a 14-year-old Negro girl, Vivian Strong, was shot and killed to reenact the exact time of the shooting.

The death of the Strong girl the night of June 24 touched off four nights of burning and looting on Omaha's predominately Negro Near North Side.

Loder was charged with manslaughter in connection with the incident and suspended from the force for 50 days, after which he is to be dismissed.

About 50 persons attended the meeting, among them 15 uniformed policemen.

It doesn't complicate your life.

Some cars ask too much of their owners. But not Maverick. Maverick is different. It's the simple machine—simple to service, simple to repair, simple to drive. We think you'll find out very quickly why we call it the simple machine.

It doesn't cost a lot of money.

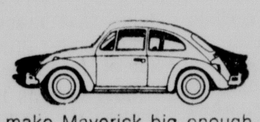

With prices everywhere going skyhigh, Maverick comes along with a price that's right down to earth, $1995.* Add $32.00 if you want whitewalls. As with any car, charges for dealer preparation, transportation, and state or local taxes are extra.

It doesn't have a tiny trunk.

No more cramming luggage just because you have a small car. No more leaving the rest of the suitcases home. Maverick gives you 10.4 cubic feet of trunk space—nearly twice as much as the leading import. Maverick's trunk lets the whole family's luggage go along for the ride.

It doesn't squeeze you in.

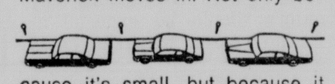

We haven't forgotten that some mighty big people live in this country. And we haven't forgotten to make Maverick big enough for the average American family. That's why it's bigger than the economy imports. The simple machine gives you lots of legroom and lots of shoulder room. The front seat offers you nine more inches of shoulder room than the leading import. Maverick is for real-life, life-size people.

It doesn't squeeze you out.

Maverick is smaller than the compacts. So, parking spaces suddenly seem larger—even the little ones most cars have to pass up. Maverick moves in. Not only because it's small, but because it turns in a tighter circle than the leading import. Great for parking, great for handling, great for zipping through traffic.

It doesn't need a lot of service.

Some people are surprised at how often little foreign cars need service. Things are different with the simple machine. An oil change comes every 6,000 miles, with a chassis lubrication once in 36,000 miles. The leading import recommends an oil change twice as often, and a chassis lubrication six times as often! (Isn't it time you started seeing more of your car and less of your mechanic?)

It doesn't burn a lot of gasoline.

Even with a powerful 6-cylinder engine, Maverick knows how to save on gas. In tests by professional drivers at our tracks, where we do our best to duplicate actual driving conditions, Maverick averaged 22.5 mpg. It was stop and go, uphill and down, over dirt and gravel roads. And it was 22.5 mpg. (But some Maverick owners have told us they've done 25 and better.)

Cheaper by the doesn'ts.

It doesn't cost a lot for maintenance.

With savings in mind and the owner's manual in hand, you can do most of the routine maintenance yourself, if you want to. Change spark plugs, replace fuel filters, adjust ignition timing. Even a dented grille can be replaced in 13 minutes. Maverick's simple design means a lot of savings in maintenance, because your mechanic can do the jobs in a lot less time. (Great when time means money and the money is yours.)

It doesn't skimp on essentials.

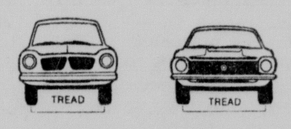

After all, this is the last place a car should skimp. Maverick incorporates the latest advances in engineering. Its brakes are designed to stop cars weighing hundreds of pounds more. And Maverick has a 3-speed transmission able to handle twice as much horsepower as the engine turns out. You can depend on the simple machine. And you can depend on its durability. Unitized body construction, rustproofing, and four coats of paint. The result—one tough little car.

It doesn't hold back on power.

Turn on the engine and you turn loose 105 big horses—nearly twice as much as the leading import. This means power for passing trucks. Power for moving good and strong on America's superhighways. Power to move you quickly out of tricky driving situations.

It doesn't handle like a kite.

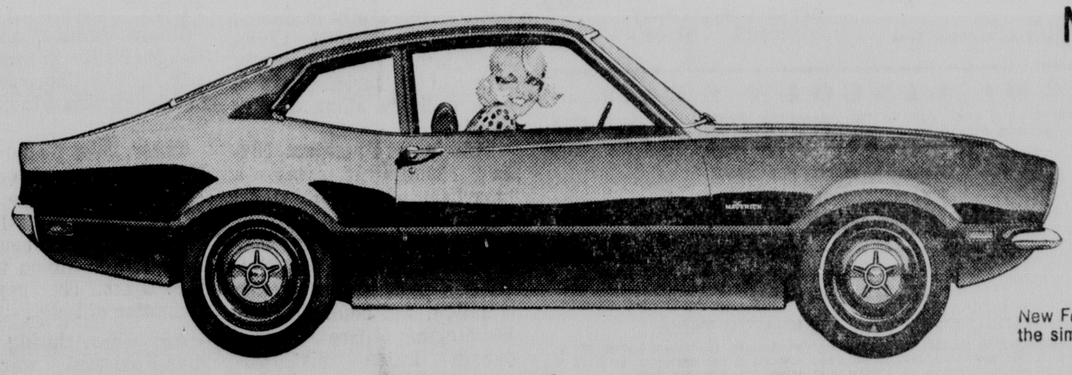

The road might be wet. The wind might be strong. But the simple machine gives you peace of mind in all kinds of weather and situations. You see, Maverick's tread is wider than the car is high. (Most economy imports are higher than their tread is wide.) So with Maverick you go with great stability.

It doesn't follow the herd.

The simple machine is a different machine. Bold, new colors and bright ideas. It's a brand-new way to drive. See your Ford Dealer for the rest of the story. Find out why Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along since Mustang.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Note: William O. Dobler, The Star's editor, is on vacation. Today's column is by humorist Virginia Payette.)

NEW YORK — They keep telling us an "aroused electorate" is what it takes to improve the country, but I dunno. These days there's so much to get "aroused" about, it's hard to stay mad enough — long enough — to follow through on everything.

You'd have to be a professional dyspeptic, a dedicated, diehard, disgruntled citizen to work yourself up every day to that feverish pitch of resentment that makes the boys in Washington pay attention.

As far as most of us are concerned, there are so many claims on our public indignation, it tends to become diluted. When you spread righteous anger out over a dozen different outrages, what should be a mighty roar comes out a pitiful little squeak.

"Write your congressman," they say. Hah! All that does is remind us how inadequate the post office is. And the irony of it is that this may be the only national mess which could be cured quickly.

Almost everybody connected with the postal system is sure he could fix it up by making it a public corporation. But it's going to take a special effort by the long-suffering public to pry it loose from Congress and the patronage system.

Then there's the "taxpayers' revolt." That peaked up in fine shape around April 15. Congressmen were swamped with so much mail, they seriously talked of doing something about tax reforms.

Sure enough, there has been a lot of talk about it lately on Capitol Hill. But what isn't there a lot of talk about in that wonderful world of Washington?

The cost of living is another frightening spiral that angries up the blood. Two bucks a pound for steak and a dollar for hamburger, by whatever name, bring howls of anguish at the check-out counter.

But by the time the consumer drives home, puts the groceries away and turns on the newscast, his rage at inflation cools in a new burst of frustration over the latest bulletin from the student or some other revolutionary front.

The draft is a fact of life that could use some improvement. But unless you have a 19-year-old hanging around the house, your protests are probably only spasmodic.

We may work ourselves up at the office and expound that Mr. Nixon, or somebody, should "do something" but then we fight the superhighway traffic jams on the way home and we're mad at the nation's collapsing transportation system.

This reminds us of those long delays at airport terminals, which reminds us that railroad companies are killing off passenger trains, which might take a lot of the pressure off airlines and highways.

This in turn reminds us of all that pollution that's fouling up the old swimming hole and gunking our lungs, and that reminds us of crowded and expensive hospital and medical services, and first thing you know, we're so furious at everything, we can't find anything special to focus on.

The shameful thing about this is that Washington is probably counting on something like that. They know they can muddle along, as they almost always have, playing their own little games, wasting our tax money with bureaucracy, and all they'll get from us is a pathetic squawk or two. Once in a while.

And if you know anything sadder than that, I don't want to hear about it.

Do We Really Want 'Good News Tonite?'

NEW YORK — A great many nice Americans feel that the time is ripe for the publication of a daily paper devoted to the dissemination of happy news, about non-radical people doing worthwhile things.

Are these nice Americans naive? Or could a sort of "Glad News Gazette" really sell enough papers to support itself?

Would merchants truly advertise in a "Head-In-Sand Herald," dedicated to burying violence and protest in the back pages?

My father asked me for amplification on this matter. "Why is news always bad?" he wanted to know.

Uncomfortably, I checked my dictionary and shifted the onus to Webster, who described news as the "intelligence of recent events." And an "event," said Webster, is "an occurrence, esp. an accurrence of some importance or . . . of a striking character."

As for the "wonderful things" that happen in a community, they deserve to be noted — but the greater "play" must naturally be given to the broader, grimmer stories. Not because the grim story makes the best headlines, or that people enjoy reading it, but because we are living in an era when most of the great, life-shaping events are indeed grim.

But enough of a defense of modern journalistic policy. The fact remains that a large and outspoken number of American adults are weary of reading of university riots, when the college in their community (indeed, in 90 per cent of academic communities) is peacefully conducting business as usual. They are tuning out vice and murder and rebellion, and demanding equal time for patriotic rallies.

"The only time I give credence to these silly God-is-Dead stories," wrote one wittily disgruntled churchgoer to an editor, "is when I get to wondering why He hasn't flooded out your newspaper!"

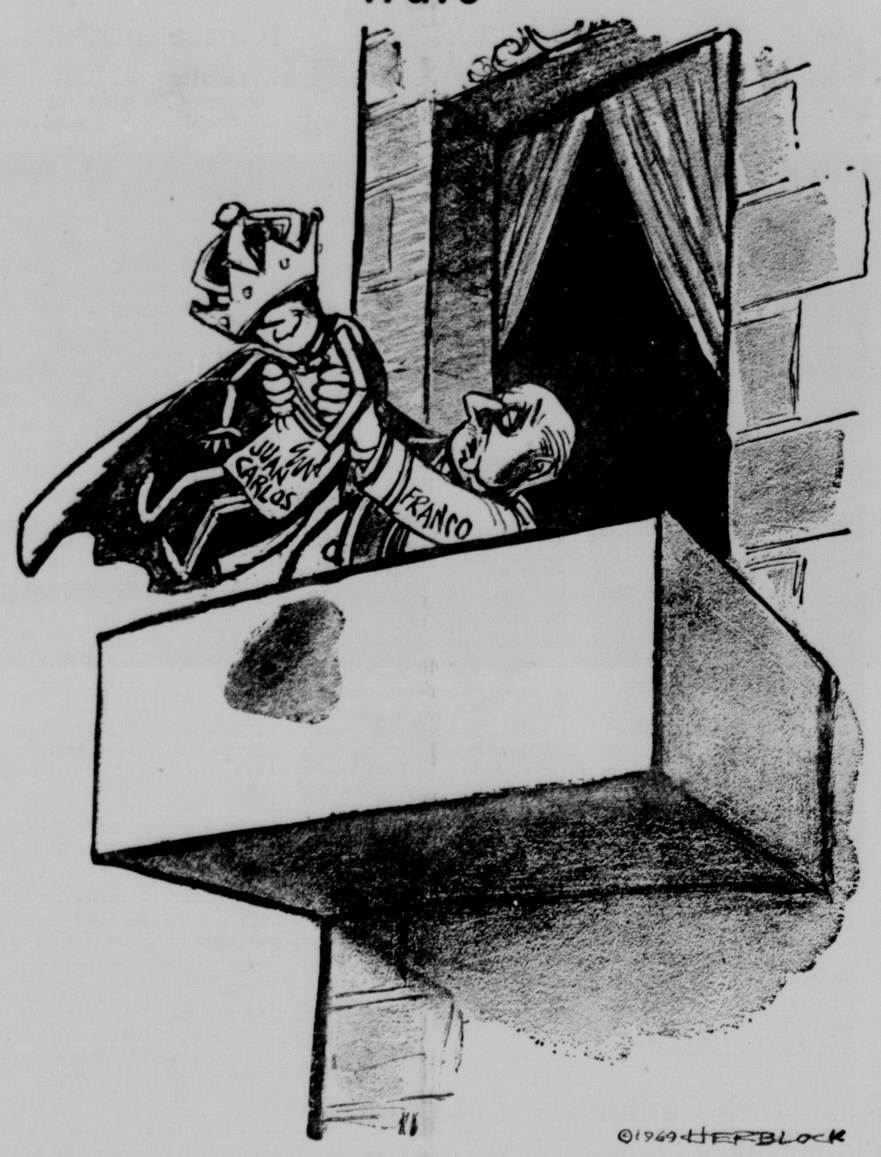

For those who long to be freed from the everlasting assault of bad news, the "Glad Gazette" seems like a peachy idea. Well, maybe. In the Soviet Union, publishing has operated in that direction for decades. Just recently, for example, the press in Russia has been gradually, on a day-to-day basis, releasing news of some 10 government officials who met death in a "tragic" manner. American specialists in Russian press procedures feel that it is probable the 10 all died together in a plane crash — but the Russians don't believe in reporting such disasters to their people . . .

Perhaps they've got the right idea.

But I wonder if many freedom-loving Americans, much as they claim to despise bad news, would really be content to give it up.

Absenteeism Hurts Legislature

There are a variety of reasons, most of them justified, why members of the Legislature seek to be excused by their colleagues from senatorial duties for a day or so. Absenteeism at the Nebraska Unicameral of late, however, has run into the critical stage.

Procedure calls for a senator to ask to be excused, or have a fellow senator stand and request the excused absence in his place. If no one objects, which almost never happens, the request is in order.

Reasonable people can understand absences for family reasons and illness. Occasional excuses to be gone on business are also justified, remembering that the Legislature is still a part-time job and many senators have job responsibilities at home which require some attention. Still others have an annual obligation to the military service. The Legislature, also, gains valuable information by sending representatives on fact-finding trips, which at times will take up to three days.

But if there are justifiable reasons why individual senators should be excused at times, there is no reason why up to 15 lawmakers — out of a total of 49 — should be missing on a single day, and this has been happening with increasing frequency as this session drags out. Absenteeism delays and jeopardizes legislation. There are still some 100 bills to move to final reading. On final reading, legislation, if it is to be passed with the emergency clause, needs 33 votes, and with only 35 or so senators present, this is hard to do.

Of the 100 bills still on first reading, some 20 are of real substance, including bills relating to a sales tax on services, homestead tax exemptions, a change in the motor vehicle taxing system, a vocational-technical school at Omaha, a coordinating council for higher education and state aid to nursing schools. Senators should be in the chamber to debate these measures.

Dragging out the session because of inability to act quickly results in some expense to the taxpayers. The longer the session, the longer it will be before some legislation goes into effect. Local governments are also waiting to see what the Legislature will do on spending and taxing measures.

Students To Benefit

Attempts by Regent Richard Herman of Omaha Monday to water down powers proposed for University of Nebraska students in decision-making about social and out-of-classroom activities proved unsuccessful as a majority on the Board of Regents approved a University Council on Student Life.

We now hope the newly authorized student-dominated council will be swiftly implemented and will take its place as a potent and positive force on the NU campus.

We guess that many concerned students would wish greater powers for the council than those authorized, but the proposal as adopted stands as a further step toward integrating the student into the academic community. The new council, which will have eight student members and seven faculty and administrative members, will have "general policy-making power over student social and out-of-classroom activities," subject to the approval of the regnts.

Among its duties will be to assume the responsibilities of the Faculty Senate Committee on Student Affairs — which had an inequitable preponderance of faculty and administrators among its membership — to take action on matters affecting student living brought before the council by other groups and to make judgments concerning the participation of students in the decision-making process of the university.

We agree with the proposition that heretofore students have had neither the clearly defined means to participate in nor an equitable role in the formation of major policies affecting out-of-classroom life. The regents took a major step to increase the quality of the student environment by their action Monday.

Vietnam Has Created Rift Between U.S., India; Mrs. Gandhi Reported Having Political Trouble

WASHINGTON — President Nixon arrives in India at an awkward time for him and for India.

In the first place, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is having her internal problems, which partly involve friendship with the U.S.A. Her Congress Party is seriously split, and if the President is not extremely careful, he is likely to rub the Indians the wrong way. India is a proud, sensitive nation which will not beg for American aid yet needs it desperately.

Second, Nixon's trip highlights the most serious mistake we have made in Asia — namely, backing a country of only 17 million people, South Vietnam, when we could have had the support of a nation of 500 million people, India.

If we had sent one-tenth of the money to India to save lives that we sent to South Vietnam to eradicate lives, India would have been our firm ally against Communist China. Instead, we have backed a dubious and expensive small ally in Saigon against Communist China and pushed a potentially powerful old friend into a near military alliance with Russia.

This is not President Nixon's fault. It was a bipartisan mistake which began with John Foster Dulles and continued under President Johnson. But Nixon has not improved the situation, and before he left Washington, there was a debate inside his administration as to whether the United States would continue shipping surplus wheat to India. Nixon was opposed. He smarted over India's criticism of the U.S. policy in Vietnam, and its frequent votes against the United States and Israel in the U.N.

But the State Department argued that if we did cut off wheat to India, it would drive that massive country even further into the arms of Soviet Russia.

Most Indians remember — though the younger generation is beginning to forget — how the United States befriended India when Winston Churchill was announcing, that "I have not become the King's first minister in order to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire." It was Mrs. Roosevelt, together with FDR's special envoy, William Phillips, and eventually FDR himself, who pressured Churchill into finally giving India independence.

Later, John Foster Dulles, Eisenhower's strong-willed secretary of state, chose Pakistan, the mortal enemy of India, as the country to back with $5 billion worth of U.S. arms. This began the alienation of India.

And when, during the Indian-Pakistani war over Kashmir, American tanks were thrown into the battle against India, the entire Indian population became aroused and bitter. It was at that time, 1966, that the U.S. Senate forced a resolution upon the Johnson administration that no more military equipment was to be sold to either Pakistan or India.

Today it looks as if the Nixon administration is going to junk that policy.

It will not be junked officially, but circumvented by a clever ruse — namely, selling American tanks to Pakistan via Iran or Turkey.

Real fact is that India came to the United States first to ask for military aid, and we turned her down. Since then Russia has become chief supplier of the Indian arsenal. Inasmuch as the cardinal policy of the United States in Asia is to block Red China, a close affiliation between the U.S.A. and India would have been a natural.

Instead, Prime Minister Gandhi this month accepted the resignation of the No. 1 friend of the United States, Morarji R. Desai, the deputy prime minister. Desai represented the older, pro-British, pro-American clique inside the Congress Party. Mrs. Gandhi has been criticized as being anti-American.

Actually she has many friends in the United States as a result of her many trips to this country, both when she accompanied her late father, Prime Minister Nehru, and later on her own. She is not anti the American people, she is anti the policies of the Johnson and Nixon administration.

The Case Against Handguns

WASHINGTON — The statistics of murder are the best for any crime, and former Attorney General Ramsey Clark has said that "we think we know that about 85 per cent of all murders are within families or between neighbors and friends. This means that if you're really frightened . . . about murder, the thing to do is to get away from your family and have no friends or neighbors." And the next best thing would be to get rid of your handgun, if you've got one, and in this country you probably do.

This is because, as demonstrated in the devastating report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, firearms were used in 65 per cent of all homicides in America in 1968 — and in three-quarters of all those firearm homicides, the lethal weapon was a handgun, commonly known as a pistol or a revolver.

Nor does the danger of a handgun in the house end with the possibility of an outraged wife or a frustrated husband blazing away at the other; about 2,900 Americans die each year from firearms accidents, and 60 per cent of these also occur in and around the home, a substantial percentage of which come from improper or careless handgun usage.

As if this were not a damaging enough case against the handgun, the violence commission also demonstrates effectively that it is worth little in the protection of business establishments, and less in the protection of a man's castle. No more than two home burglaries in each thousand were foiled by the home-owner shooting the burglar, in a study made in Detroit; in the same city, 25 persons died from firearms accidents in 1967, but in four and a half years, only 23 home robbers or burglars were killed by guns.

Now, what is the gun lobby going to say in response to this damaging avalanche of evidence loosed by the violence commission against the handgun?

Is it going to reply that the sportsmen of America are entitled to hunt with handguns? One who pleads guilty to the foolish business of having recently tried to shoot snapping turtles with a target pistol can testify that it is unrewarding sport, indeed; and it is obvious on the face of the matter that the "sporting" argument can be used in defense of handguns only in the most limited sense.

Is the gun lobby going to say, then, that the Constitution guarantees every fool the right to risk the lives of his family, friends and self by keeping a handgun in the dresser drawer? It does no such thing, limiting nothing in this area but the federal government's powers over state militia bodies and leaving it uninhibited legally in restricting individual possession of firearms.

Will it be said, these arguments failing, that restrictions on handguns will lead to restrictions on rifles and shotguns that ARE used for sport? Maybe so, but the violence commission draws a clear, sensible and fair distinction; it is saying that handguns ought to be prohibited to those who cannot show a need for them, and long guns ought to be permitted to those who are not obviously incapable of handling them — the mentally incompetent — or legally ineligible — such as proven criminals and children.

Handgun enthusiasts cannot even fall back on states' rights; all that is being proposed is that the states establish their own standards as to which persons may own a handgun, and why. Only if a state failed for four years to avail itself of this state right would a federal standard be imposed, under these new proposals.

The plain fact of the matter, and the burden of the commission report, is that there is no good argument for unlimited individual ownership of handguns, not even among the descendants, God help them, of Billy the Kid and other thugs. And the value of the commission recommendations is that they rest firmly on this one plain provable proposition: that handguns have no real place in private hands, and ought largely to be taken out of them by the states.

This proposition tests the commitment to fighting crime claimed by President Nixon and Attorney General Mitchell, since their administration's political strength lies where the guns are. Fifty-nine per cent of southerners own guns (and 72 per cent of that region's homicides are committed with guns). Forty-nine per cent of far westerners and 51 per cent of midwesterners are gun owners, as against only 31 per cent of northeasterners.

Yet, it is the unavoidable conclusion of the violence commission — which Nixon and Mitchell did not consult in recommending last week against any further gun control legislation — that the availability of firearms — particularly handguns—is a major factor in the incidence of violent crime. A program against such crime without a program against handguns is therefore a bark without much bite.

Public Trough

Nelson, Neb.

I have long regarded myself as a Terry Carpenter Republican because the delightfully extroverted and fast-swinging Scottsbluff resident calls spades in that No. 1 taboo area inhabited by the fiscal masters of Lincoln and Omaha. No other politician ventures into the hoax of the financial factor as operating. Also, Terry can change his mind quickly; no cement between his ears. This is an important ability in these technological times. Electronic engineers have a phrase for it: quick reaction capability (q.r.c.)

Senator Carpenter's latest proposal to publish welfare recipient's names is not practical, however, because so many millions are on public welfare. We know their names now. Their names are not what matters but the fact that they populate a top-heavy oxen-era bureaucracy which has to go.

That the whole economy presently turns on trough-sloppers at the public till is a concept which the rank-and-file toilers should grasp. The most blaring and the greatest imposition, of course, are the "defense" racketeers. Many millions of tax dollars are wasted on maintaining a huge armament and military enclave for an enemy who is not there and never has been.

To My Country

Lincoln, Neb.

My Country! Now that you have scored again
To lead the world in occupying space;
When astronauts, all consecrated men,
With daring intrepidity and grace
Walk safely on the moon to search, explore
Its mountains, craters, atmospheric phase;
Unveil to earthlings all her mystic lore
And win from nations universal praise.
Walk softly! Nor let vanity and pride
In great achievements obscure the release
Of Nations' harmony. Let grace abide
And lead the way to universal peace.
Success in great achievements only leads
To great responsibilities and deeds.

No Evasion

Waverly, Neb.

I was disappointed upon reading the letter by Anita Clark, July 24, to realize there are people in this day and age who will write a letter as she did about Mr. Kennedy, apparently just because of a personal dislike.

Definitely, anyone doing wrong should be treated accordingly, but how can Miss Clark say "apparent panic," by jumping to her own conclusions, as none of the facts were known at that time? She goes on to say that he "claims exception because of family name and financial resources." Nothing could be more false. In reality, because of his name and position, he is probably more harassed, certainly more open to public scrutiny.

How does Miss Clark feel now, upon hearing that Mr. Kennedy insists upon accepting charges, even insists his actions were "indefensible"? That hardly sounds like a man who is evading the issue.

I wonder if Miss Clark, in all fairness and putting aside her personal feelings, can possibly think back to all the challenges, tragedies and decisions met by this man, and then cut short a promising career because of one incident?

I am not discussing the details of the accident, but want only to point out that anyone who makes assumptions and accusations without basis in fact is someone whose own judgment might well be questioned.

Not Convinced

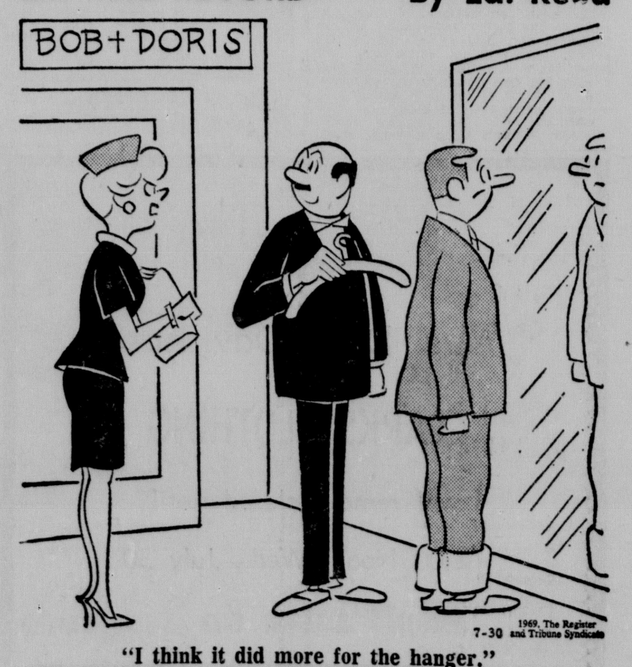

North Platte, Neb.

I have been convinced all along that Ted Kennedy was not telling the truth. He proved it Friday night, July 25, on television. I still think he hasn't completely told the truth and that the truth will never be known, except by him. His cousin and the other man could not have known the complete story. Why did he use that road in the first place?

This will undoubtedly hurt him politically, though he will probably be nominated by the Democrats for another term for U.S. senator, but he may not be elected. Anyhow, his getting to be president is doubtful.

RAY RICKETTS

OFF THE RECORD By Ed. Reed

"I think it did more for the hanger."

Senators Reject Early Adjournment

The Legislature Tuesday rejected another proposal aimed at speeding adjournment and decided to stay in session "until the job gets done."

On a 21-10 vote, the Unicameral defeated a motion by State Sen. Henry Pedersen of Omaha to limit each lawmaker to sponsorship of two bills now pending at the first stage of floor consideration.

Under the proposal, once the lawmakers had chosen which two of their bills hold the highest priority, all other bills which have not received initial debate automatically would be killed.

Pedersen said his proposal, which would have disposed of dozens of bills, was aimed at allowing the Legislature to adjourn "around Aug. 20." He said the Unicameral would be in session until the middle of September otherwise.

Opponents of the motion said the Legislature would be disregarding its responsibility if it adopted the proposal.

"It seems to me we ought to stay here until the job gets done," said State Sen. William Wylie of Elgin.

State Sen. Richard Proud of Omaha said the proposal was "the height of absurdity.

"What we'd be saying to the people is that we didn't mean to be down here anyway," he said.

Proud said it would be wrong for the lawmakers to give some bills more priority than others because every bill is important to someone.

"All of these bills would just go down the drain-o," he said. "We're supposed to be down here representing the people, but we're just completely disregarding (their) rights."

The Legislature has already been in session 135 days and is certain to surpass the 149-day 1965 session as the longest in Nebraska history.

State Sen. Lester Harsh of McCook said the lawmakers would not be facing a record session if it spent less time discussing rules, procedures and adjournment motions.

"We spend 30 per cent of our time just discussing procedures," he said. "This is what takes up time."

Legislative Speaker Jerome Warner of Waverly said lawmakers who feel it is "inopportune" for them to be in session so long should "look to other alternatives" besides being a legislator.

Trafalgar Square is a center of London. Lord Nelson on his tall pillar looks across the city on the Thames. Lions crouching at the base, pigeons wheeling through the air.

Ban-the-Bomb groups have held sit-downs. A British Nazi party held open meetings. Opponents screaming murder and the police holding the line.

"Steady on now," said the bobby. "Let the blighter have his bloody say."

Mum and Dad bring the children down for a Sunday stroll and an ice. Lovers go hand in hand in summer sun beside the museum colonnade and the grey Portland stone buildings.

A group against war has rented the square. The speaker's voice comes scratchily from a loud speaker: "Do you realize we are sending arms to Nigeria for the destruction of Biafran children?"

English gardens are filled with flowers now. It takes hundreds of years to build such an ordered array.

So it is a matter of national concern that the mimulus plant has lost its odor. (See angry letters to the editor.)

Botanists are baffled. The mimulus has perfumed gardens since the Romans built their villas along the winding streams of Surrey.

Nobody knows why. In the last half of the Nineteenth century, the mimulus just didn't have an odor anymore.

It's a sad world at the bottom of our garden.

We ran up a ruddy hill in St. James Street, and the shopkeeper now sends his account.

"Messers. Crawfish and Wimple beg leave to tender their account . . ."

The account is in guineas — a non-existent coin. A guinea is a pound, $2.40 and a shilling, 12 cents. It is a sign of elegance. The best shops mark goods in guineas. Doctor bills are in guineas.

"Don't pay it for at least six months," a friend here advises me. "A firm billing in guineas doesn't expect payment for that much time. Actually if you pay right away, they'll lose respect for you."

This chi-chi attitude dates from times when titled Englishmen paid no attention to bills from tradesmen. If pushed, they'd pop down and cane the man soundly.

Crawfish and Wimple had best watch out. There's a place in Dover Street that makes splendid canes.

☆ ☆ ☆

The people who want their money on time mark their goods in shillings. There are 20 shillings to the pound. But 99 shillings looks cheaper than 4 pounds, 19 shillings. Catch?

Britain is getting ready to go on decimal currency. In every store you find a wheel conversion table — "How to convert sterling to decimal."

American tourists are here in force. Eighty per cent of Americans to London come in July and August. They are all looking for something "really English."

A hotel man told me: "By that they mean tea and crumpets in the lounge. Victorian paneling and a few retired Colonels from India.

"But they also want noiseless plumbing without the chain pull — which is the mark of the Victorian bathroom.

"This is a difficult combination to find. If a hotel owner puts in American plumbing, he puts in an American bar while he's at it. After all the plumber is right there on the premises.

"This gives him a bar with running water. And the Americans then say: 'Can't you find us a place with true English atmosphere?'

☆ ☆ ☆

"Atmosphere is difficult to create," he said. "I imagine what they want is for us to drown a minor Prince in a butt of malmsey. If we could reenact the beheading of Raleigh each night, we'd make a fortune."

Record School Budget Adopted By Ed Board

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

A record high $25,785,933 budget for the 1969-70 operation of the Lincoln Public Schools was adopted by the Board of Education at an unusual noon meeting Tuesday.

The budget of estimated expenditures for all funds, including the adult and vocational education division, compares with the 1968-69 budget of $24,474,838.

The school board approved a resolution requesting some $18,225,009 in taxes to finance the district's funds. Receipts from all sources are expected to total $24,950,878.

Separate Resolutions

Board members actually adopted a separate resolution asking for $393,690 of the total taxes requested to help support a $687,650 budget for the area vocational-technical school, renamed the Lincoln Technical College by the 1969 Legislature.

The adult and vocational education division had been included in the gneral fund budget in previous years.

Associate Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog has estimated that the total mill levy increase many be less than six mills, assuming that the assessed valuation is set at $300 million. The mill levy for all school funds, including approximately 1.5 mills for the adult and vocational education division, is estimated at 61, comared to 56.5 mills in 1968-69.

Pay raises for all members of the school staff account for most of the $1,899,318 increase in the general fund budget adopted by the board. General fund expenses are expected to total $19,820,569 next year.

Increases Vary

The percentage increases in certificated staff salaries include a range of 2-11% for teachers and a range of 0-23% for administrators.

Classified staff members will receive average increases of 6.8% for clerical workers, 19% for custodians and operation personnel, 15% for maintenance personnel and 10% for food service employes.

Although the budget is based on actual salaries that will be paid to persons in specific positions, flexibility was incorporated into the budget with a $60,000 contingency fund for "unassigned teachers."

Flexibility

Similar flexibility is provided in the instructional equipment funds that are designated for "general classroom" equipment, budgeted for 1969-70 at $130,000, or nearly one-third of the entire equipment budget.

Unexpended funds in the instructional equipment budget at the end of the year will allow the district to purchase items that are part of the long-range plan of schools, according to Associate Supt. Dr. Robert Den Hartog.

Costs within the general fund affecting the district's eligibility for state aid will be within the 108% increase permitted under the current formula, it was reported.

Estimated Total

Total expenditures estimated for the various sections of the general fund budget, and the increase in per pupil costs over last year's expenditures are: instruction, $14,496,935, up 8%, administration, $388,410, up 6.3%; health and attendance, $227,446, up 4.1%; bus transportation, $151,606, up 1.3%; summer school, $130,000, up 15.5%; capital outlay, $288,400, up 0.7%; operations, $2,056,326, up 11.4%; maintenance, $985,046, up 4.5%; and fixed charges, $1,096,400, up 9.3%.

Except for the general state aid, receipts from state funds are expected to increase significantly in most categories, according to Den Hartog. Increases in school district receipts also are anticipated from fines, interest on investments and free high school tuition.

A $2,025,000 budget for the current levy building fund approved by the board indicates that planning for an East junior high and elementary schools on the Rosemont (78th and Leighton) and Southwood (south of Hwy. 2) sites may get underway next year.

Other Projects

Other new construction that was included in the budget for next year includes Sheridan cafeteria remodeling, parking space at Whittier Junior High and East High School, a warehouse, an addition to Ruth Pyrtle School and Lincoln High library remodeling.

Board members passed a resolution authorizing a vote by telephone, if necessary, to change the tax request if the assessed valuation is changed significantly. The $1,200,000 requested from tax funds for the building fund is the estimated amount to be raised from the statutory limit of four mills.

Other budgets approved by the school board were:

—$1,157,400 for bond sinking fund.

—$407,655 for bond interest fund.

—$1,250,000 for food services.

—$22,659 for athletic building corporation.

—$415,000 for the employes' retirement fund.

Vocational School Budgeted $687,650

. . . Renamed Technical College

The Lincoln Board of Education Tuesday approved a $687,650 budget for the vocational technical school and authorized renaming the division the "Lincoln Technical College."

Board members approved a resolution requesting some $393,690 in local tax funds to help finance the adult and vocational courses offered by the school district.

Earlier this year the board had created a separate governing unit for the adult and vocational division, known as the board of area vocational technical school No. 5, and directed that the division's budget be separated from the regular school district functions.

Tuesday the board formally authorized the president to sign an application to change the school's name to Lincoln Technical College in line with recent legislative action.

Two Divisions

The Technical College will be divided into two sections: the community services division which will include the Adult High School, and the occupational services division.

Some $517,606 of the budget will be spent on instruction. A $50,000 charge will be made against the Technical College for use of the school buildings and operation and maintenance costs that have previously been borne by the regular school program.

Receipts for the Technical College, in addition to the local taxes, are expected to include $98,000 from state and federal aid, $142,460 from tuition, $33,500 from supplies and fees and $20,000 from other sources.

New Programs

In addition to the present occupational programs of business and office education, trade and industrial courses, practical nursing and dental assisting, the budget includes a $25,000 item for the development of new programs, such as graphic arts.

In other business Tuesday the school board:

—Authorized a board committee to work with the Library Board on selection of an appraiser for the school site at 56th and Normal. The library board is interested in purchasing four acres of the property.

A private contractor is in the process of preparing an offer to purchase of the entire 19-acre site, it was reported.

—Approved continuation budgets for the federally funded Title I remedial reading and speech program and the unit for the visually impaired pre-schoolers.

—Approved the low bid of Arbor Press Printing Co. to produce the 1969-70 Lincoln High School yearbook, according to principal William Bogar's preference, and the second low bids of Walsworth Publishing Co. for East High and Inter-Collegiate Press for the Northeast and Southeast yearbooks.

—Accepted the bids of W. P. Stark Lumber Co. of Kansas City, Kan., of $14,200, and of John Hoppe Lumber Co., of $73, to furnish lumber for industrial arts projects.

—Appointed John Holmes, a sixth grade teacher at Holmes school, assistant principal at Sheridan School.

—Approved other personnel changes, including the appointment of Duane Strough, Lincoln High physical education teacher and gymnastics coach on a provisional certificate until he completes requirements for a bachelor's degree.

Nebraska Man Sentenced For Homer Robbery

Cheyenne (AP) — A Nebraska man, James Henry Henderson, pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges of armed bank robbery, attempted robbery and forgery. He was sentenced to 40 years in prison.

Henderson was apprehended in Cheyenne and held for investigation in the robbery of the American State Bank of Homer, Neb., of $3,713. He was held in jail under $50,000 bond.

When brought before U.S. Dist. Judge Ewing Kere, Henderson admitted the attempted burglary of the U.S. Post Office at Concord, Neb., and of forgery of two U.S. postal money orders.

Before passing the sentence, Kerr noted Henderson's lengthy criminal record, which had begun with a two-year sentence in 1941 for robbery in Kentucky.

Governor's Removal Power Is Rejected By Legislature

The Legislature Tuesday rejected Sen. Fred Carstens' effort to permit future governors to remove the state's director of corrections at their pleasure.

Carstens was rebuffed in a bid to amend LB1307, the comprehensive new corrections proposal, which provides that the director may be removed only for cause, and after a public hearing.

Penal Complex Warden Maurice Sigler presumably will be named director of corrections if the bill is enacted into law.

Director Appointed

LB1307 provides that the director would be appointed by the director of public institutions. He could be removed "only for disability, incompetence, neglect of duty of malfeasance in office."

Proceedings for removal would have to be initiated by the director of public institutions, with a final decision rendered by the Board of Pardons after a hearing.

Sen. John Knight of Lincoln, chief sponsor of the bill, said those provisions are designed to keep the job "out of politics" and assure a professional approach to administration of correctional institutions.

"You all remember the fiasco of the fifties when wardens were political appointees," Knight said.

Provides 'Life Term'

But Carstens said the bill is "fixed so that Sigler would have a life term at a high salary. You can't remove him unless you shoot him."

Carstens said the director should serve at the pleasure of the governor, as do other administrative officials.

"If there is a change of political parties and he doesn't fit in, he ought to be removed," the Beatrice lawmaker said.

Carstens' amendment was rejected on an 8-13 vote.

Sigler is now titled as the deputy director for corrections by administrative action. He serves under Public Institutions Director Don Duncan.

Public Welfare List Resolution Fails Passage

A resolution requiring public display of welfare lists failed to win Legislature passage Tuesday.

The motion got a favorable 18-17 vote but was short of the 25 needed for passage.

State Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha offered the resolution Monday. It would have required county clerks to make available to the Unicameral lists of welfare recipients, the amounts they receive and the reasons for the grants.

State Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff was successful in amending the resolution to have the clerks display the lists in their offices.

The resolution was aimed at giving the public a true picture of welfare costs, Pedersen said.

"I'm not sure we should be giving this information to busybodies," said Omaha Sen. Richard Proud. "This is like having to open your books."

He said some lawmakers had argued that welfare aid was public money and the Legislature had a right to know who gets it. "But does that give us a right to spy on these people?" he asked.

He said program administrators are the ones who should correct any abuses.

Carpenter said since the recipients are taking public money they "have no right to object" to disclosure of their names.

Carpenter last week was unsuccessful in an attempt to introduce a bill requiring newspaper publication of recipients' names.

The Federal Social Security Law forbids publication of welfare names for political or advertising purposes. The lists would have been "prominently displayed" in the clerks' offices with warnings against misuse.

State Sen. Robert Clark of Sidney said a welfare official to whom he talked favored the resolution because it would correct public information about how much money some people receive.

Clark said persons who are concerned about welfare already have the right to see information. He said they should "go up and get the facts before they start talking."

Missile Roars Over Desert In First Successful Firing

Alamogordo, N.M. (AP) — A sleek, supersonic missile that could turn Air Force bombers into nuclear missile launch pads thundered across the New Mexico desert Tuesday in its first successful test firing.

SRAM, which stands for short range attack missile, was sent streaking over barren White Sands Missile Range to a pre-determined target after dropping from the wing of a B52 bomber cruising at 17,000 feet. The missile's single solid-fuel engine was ignited 15 seconds after release to send it hurtling away at supersonic speeds.

Representatives of Boeing Co., Seattle, Wash., and Lockheed Propulsion, Redlands, Calif., said the test was successful.

When operational, SRAM will be deployed on B-52 and F-111 bombers and add a new dimension to the United States military arsenal.

Capable of carrying a nuclear warhead, the 14-foot missile is equipped with a sophisticated guidance system controlled by the aircraft that launches it. A SRAM-equipped B52, for example, could circle over friendly forces and fire the missiles into preselected enemy targets miles away.

Air Force officials have classified the missile's range and speed.

The test firing culminated three years of work begun in 1966 when Boeing received a $143 million contract for development of the missile.

A crowd of more than 450 spectators watched the firing Tuesday, rare for a missile flight over White Sands where such events are shrouded in secrecy.

Contractor personnel, Air Force officials and tourists mingled together and watched the firing from a picnic area on White Sands National Monument adjacent to the missle range.

SCS Authorizes Help For Local Nebraska Units

Washington, D.C. — Congressman Robert V. Denney announced that the Soil Conservation Service has authorized assistance to local Nebraska organizations.

This technical and financial assistance will help prepare a watershed work plan under the authority of the Watershed Protection and Floor Prevention Act. It will pertain to organized farmers living in small watersheds where floods, droughts and soil erosion are causing serious damage, Denney said.

Sponsoring local organizations in the First District include the Lancaster Soil and Water Conservation District, in Malcolm; the Otoe Soil and Water Conservation District, Dunbar; and the Johnson District in Elk Creek.

Afternoon Wedding

Arrangements of foliage appointed the chancel of the First Presbyterian Church in St. James, Minn., where the wedding of Miss Phyllis Bowen of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Bowen of St. James, and Douglas Leslie Anderson, also of Lincoln, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Anderson, took place on Saturday afternoon, July 26. The Rev. Gilbert J. Kuyper solemnized the 2 o'clock ceremony.

The two attendants, Mrs. John A. Doolittle of Memphis, Tenn., the matron of honor, and Miss Donna Johnson of Sioux Falls, S.D., the bridesmaid, wore alike floor-length, long-sleeved frocks in the yellow tone which were designed in the Empire mode. They carried bouquets of yellow-centered white daisies and wore daisy clusters in their hair.

Gerald Nickell of Denton served as best man, and seating the guests were Robert Bruhl of Waverly; Neil Triggard of Lincoln: James Murphy of Elkhorn and Larry Ludwig of White Bear Lake, Minn.

Designed in the Empire mode the gown chosen by the bride was fashioned of ottoman, touched with Venise lace. The lace contoured the portrait neckline and wrist-frilled the long sleeved, smoothly sculptured bodice. The lace was repeated to band the hem of the floor-length A-line skirt and to border the Watteau train which extended into cotillion length from a back waistline bow. A calot of Venise lace daisies and pearl clusters held to the head her four-tiered shoulder-length veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and white daisies.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will reside at 1427 E St., in Lincoln.

The bride is a graduate of Iowa State University at Ames and is a member of the Woman's department staff at The Lincoln Star. Mr. Anderson is engaged in business in Lincoln.

We Hear That

Mrs. Ernest Turnwall returned last weekend from Los Angeles, Calif., where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Yarnell, formerly of Lincoln. Mrs. Yarnell will be remembered as the former Carolyn Wicker.

TOWN TALK

Weddings, as everyone knows, bring on quite a display of lace, tulle, long trains short trains, a variety of necklines, and an assortment of fabrics.

Something new has been added, however, for a wedding that will take place on Sept. 4. The addition isn't the result of creative genius, nor could one honestly term it 'horse sense' even though it was a horse that has changed the bridal procession from the usual to the unusual.

It seems that bride-elect Miss Barbara Dudek, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Dudek, and two of her friends were planning a trail ride last Friday evening, but just as Miss Dudek was mounting, her horse reared and fell backward — on Miss Dudek. The result was a fractured leg which now is in a cast and which will remain in that state for three months — long past the wedding date of Sept. 4. So, Miss Dudek will meet her bridegroom, Lyle Petersen, at the altar after proceeding down the processional aisle on crutches.

* * *

When Mr. and Mrs. Warren Noyce Ayres and Maj. and Mrs. Nicholas Smeloff entertained at a canape party between the hours of 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock, and 6 o'clock until 8 o'clock last evening at the Lakeshore Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres in Capitol Beach Manor, the party honored Miss Susan Ayres and Nicholas Smeloff whose marriage will be solemnized this afternoon.

Maj. and Mrs. Smeloff could not attend the party since they are in the Philippines but they did have some host and hostess understudies — Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Hardesty.

Bride-Elect Plans Party

Miss Karen Niederhaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Niederhaus, will honor her bridesmaids when she is hostess at a dinner which will be held Monday evening, Aug. 11, at the Elks' Club.

The marriage of Miss Niederhaus and Steve Hatten, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hatten, will be solemnized at a 7 o'clock ceremony on Friday evening, Aug. 15 at First Plymouth Congregational Church.

Don't miss it. News of friends on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, PTA notes and club meetings makes good reading in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Party Compliments August Bride-Elect

The bevy of August brides-elect is contributing considerably to the late July activity. The calendar is generously dotted with courtesy dates for this bride or that one regardless of whether or not the wedding date is early August, late August, or in between.

One of these brides-elect is Miss Priscilla Lewis whose marriage to Dennis Beckman will take place on Friday, Aug. 8.

On Monday evening Miss Lewis was the incentive for a mother-daughter party and a personal shower for which Mrs. Don Bouc and her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Olson and her sister, Miss Diane Olsen, were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Bouc.

Suburbia Stays Busy, Happy

"Oh the Disadvantages of You" laments the title of a currently-popular television commercial melody — and if we wanted to localize the application of that statement just a bit, we could say that there are certain disadvantages to living in Nebraska during the summer. Heading the list of drawbacks, of course, is the weather which, either because it is too hot or too nice, deters people from accomplishing those many tasks that are waiting to be done.

However, despite the fluctuating climate, which, if nothing else keeps Nebraskans on their toes wondering "what's next," Lincoln's suburban residents have managed to squeeze quite a bit of activity into the past few days.

A short trip kept Southbrook Summit residents Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fleecs busy a week ago Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Fleecs motored to Omaha to meet Mr. Fleecs' mother, Mrs. George Fleecs of Sutherland. It seems that Mrs. Fleecs was returning from a vacation in Elkton, Md. where she had been the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Galyen.

Mrs. Fleecs accompanied her son and daughter-in-law back to Lincoln where she was an overnight guest, before returning home on Tuesday.

Returning to Lincoln today following a week-long stay in Leigh will be Jerry Muhle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Muhle. Jerry spent the past week as the guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Muhle in Leigh.

With the month of July just about completed, the family reunion season is in full swing — all of which is fine with suburban residents who are among the most avid "family reunion attenders" to be found anywhere.

Taking part in the Richard family reunion which was held Sunday in Concordia, Kan. were Eastborough residents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degenhardt and children, Dan, Joan, David, Carol, Richard and Mary Pat.

Following the festivities, Mr. and Mrs. Degenhardt's other daughter, Alice, returned to Lincoln with her family. She had spent the past six weeks visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richard in Miltonvale, Kan.

Incidentally, we also should wish Miss Mary Pat Degenhardt a happy birthday — the young lady will join the ranks of four-year-olds on Sunday.

Plans to attend the Graham family reunion and picnic are on the weekend agenda for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruyle and children, Sherrie, Nanci, Patricia, Joan and Robert. The get-to-gether will take place Sunday afternoon in Marysville, Kan.

Among those doing some entertaining this weekend will be Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Warner and family of Southwood. Arriving on Friday for a five-day stay in Lincoln will be Mrs. Warner's sister, Miss Gaila Friesen of Hillsborough, Kan. We understand that Miss Friesen has been employed at a summer camp near Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

Other guests will include Mrs. Warner's mother, Mrs. Orlando Friesen, and her aunt, Mrs. Menno Dyck and daughter, Tony, all of Hillsborough. The visitors will return home on Tuesday.

MISS CANDACE ROSS

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Ross of Hickman make announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Candace, to Douglas G. King of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd J. King of York.

The wedding is planned for Nov. 22.

Miss Ross attended the Nebraska Vocational Technical School at Milford.

MISS PENNY NICHOLS

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Nichols of the engagement of their daughter, Penny Ann, to Larry Lee Krieger, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Krieger.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Nov. 8.

Mr. Krieger will enter the University of Nebraska in September.

Bridegroom-Elect Is Honored

The tables were turned Monday evening when groom-elect, George E. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Knight, was honored at a prenuptial party.

Hostesses at the festivities were Mrs. Val N. Wieler and Mrs. Jeanette Dunn, and they entertained at the home of Mrs. Dunn. During the evening, 40 of Mr. Knight's working associates presented him with a miscellaneous shower.

The marriage of Mr. Knight and Miss Jean Louise Conner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Conner of San Francisco, Calif., will be an event of Friday evening, Aug. 15. Mr. Knight is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is affiliated with Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Miss Conner attends Nebraska Wesleyan University, and her sorority is Phi Mu.

Paris Likes Mini-Skirt

This morning Joan Deppa, fashion writer for United Press International, tells us what is going on in the Paris fashion world. Here is the latest news—

Paris — Marc Bohan of Christian Dior will show the large majority of hemlines in his fall-winter collection next week at mid-calf or below, a spokesman for the house said Wednesday.

But the house, whose late founder launched the long-skirted "new look" in 1947, will still show some very short skirts in the collection, the spokesman said.

"About three-quarters of the collection will be at mid-calf or even longer. The short skirts will be very short, the term mini-skirt is not in our vocabulary," she said.

The look will have little in common with the style introduced by Dior himself, a wasp-waisted, full-skirted line that required complicated padding to force its wearer into the right shape.

The original "new look" hit Paris like a bomb. Models who paraded the first outfits through the streets were attacked physically by angry housewives, who regarded the yards of material required to make the dresses as extravagance in those post-war days. But thousands of fashion-conscious women started remaking their wardrobes overnight.

"The new new look" will be a much more supple and easy style, the Dior spokesman said.

In many ways, it will be almost mannish by comparison with the ultra-feminine and complicated original. Shirts and loose boxy jackets and narrow but not tight skirts will be a key part. So will trousers.

Bohan, who has been one of the greatest defenders of short skirts for several seasons on the ground that women want to show their legs, seems to have had a change of heart.

But not completely. And this, for the average woman may be the most important part of the Dior statement.

Yves St. Laurent, who many fashion industry pros regard as the most influential designer in Paris, already has some new longer dresses and coats hanging in his ready-to-wear boutique in the Paris student quarter.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

One of declarer's most frequent problems is whether to finesse or play for the drop when he is missing four to the queen of a suit. There is ordinarily such a slight mathematical advantage in favor of playing for the drop that almost any clue which indicates otherwise should persuade declarer to finesse instead.

Here is an excellent example of declarer's proper approach to the play in a case where he can see that the fate of the hand depends on how he handles the trumps.

West cashes the K-A of hearts and continues with the ten, which South ruffs as East discards a diamond. Declarer cashes the ace of spades, both defenders following low, but since he is not yet ready for the crucial trump decision, he temporarily shifts his attention elsewhere to learn more about the opponents' distribution.

He leads a club to the king, a diamond to the king, a club to the ace, followed by a diamond to the ace. When he now ruffs a diamond in dummy and leads the jack of spades, East following low, declarer comes face to face with the decision of whether to finesse.

South still does not know where the queen is located, but, peculiarly enough, he can guarantee ten tricks by taking a finesse.

In the actual hand the finesse succeeds and South winds up making the contract, losing two hearts and a club, but the outcome would have been exactly the same had the finesse lost to the queen.

In that case, West — whose original distribution must have consisted of two spades, six hearts, three diamonds and two clubs — would be forced to return a heart, permitting South to discard his club loser as he ruffed the return in dummy.

In other words, South may lose the battle for the queen if he takes the finesse, but he is sure to win the war.

ABBY: no one need tell him

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister's husband has an incurable disease and according to the doctor he can't last more than six months. Believe it or not he is a lawyer, and my sister doesn't know if he has a will or not. And listen to this. After he had one of his bad days she hinted around that maybe he should put his affairs in order, and he said, "What for? I'm not going any place!"

Is it possible that he doesn't want to face the facts? There is a lot involved, as he had a first wife by whom he had children, and even grandchildren, and my sister hasn't the faintest idea of where she stands. Who should tell him how much time he has? We think it's up to the doctor, but the doctor says he doesn't believe in telling his patients things like that.

BATON ROUGE

DEAR BATON: From the way your sister "hints around" I doubt if anyone will have to tell her husband anything. Perhaps he knows, and his affairs are sufficiently "in order" to suit him.

DEAR ABBY: A mother signed "WORRIED" wrote that her six-year-old daughter had been taken into the woods by a 12-year-old neighbor boy three times, but she (the mother) was told that she would do nothing about it until she had medical proof of actual damage. Whoever told her that was wrong!

If there is a juvenile department in her town or county, that mother should talk to them about her problem. She should also consult her county attorney who will inform her of her rights in regard to trespassing and molesting. Trespassing involves the right to keep people off one's property (either owned or rented), and molesting involves "bothering" a person, mentally or physically. (It includes just "speaking" to a person against his will.)

In most states, a person who is being molested can take two witnesses and go to the molester (or in the case of a minor, to the parents or guardian) and in the presence of the two witnesses tell the molester to stay away from the family and property of the molested. If the molesting does not stop, the molested can file charges with the county attorney.

If the molested person feels there is any danger when he goes to serve notice on the molester, he should take policeman or sheriff with him to protect him and his witnesses.

Action Postponed On Reappropriating Capital Construction Funds Bill

Efforts to introduce a new bill reappropriating capital construction funds for projects previously authorized or underway were postponed by the Legislature until Thursday.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly asked for permission to introduce the bill Tuesday, but Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff objected.

Lawmakers then voted 30-0 to table the motion until Thursday when senators will debate a motion to reconsider final reading action on LB1425, the capital construction appropriations bill apparently plagued with constitutional problems.

Warner said the state must meet its obligations, and assure contractors that they will be paid swiftly for projects already underway so they, in turn, can meet their payrolls.

But Carpenter said senators who are concerned about the issue can provide the 33 votes needed to enact LB1425 with the emergency clause when it is reconsidered.

Without 33 votes, reappropriations would not become effective until three months after the Legislature adjourns.

Appropriations in excess of the governor's recommended figures for each project also need 33 votes, according to an attorney general's opinion.

LB1425 was enacted on a 26-12 vote.

The attorney general is wrong, Carpenter said, and the issue should be resolved in court. LB1425 should be signed into law in its present form and implemented, he said.

Senators who have been anxious to eliminate the $11 million in additional funding attached to the bill on the floor "would lose their enthusiasm for economy" if they realized how many other projects would be impaired by the attorney general's opinion, Carpenter said.

Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln won consent to delay consideration of Warner's motion until senators act on the motion to reconsider LB1425.

Footprints on the moon

The picture at right, one of the first released by the space Center at Houston, was taken from the window of the lunar module and clearly shows the astronauts' footprints in the moondust. Below is another picture from inside the module showing navigation markings on the window and the ESAP components on the moon's surface; the cone shaped object in the foreground is one of the lunar module's thrusters. To the right is one of the pictures showing the American flag as it looked from the lunar module.

All the pictures on this page were made from 16 mm color movie film made with a Mauer camera at 6 and 12 frames per second. The pictures were released by NASA and transmitted from Houston by AP Wirephoto.

This view pictured at right of the moon's surface was taken as Apollo 11 lunar module was just about to set down on the surface of the moon.

Community College District Tiff Brews

Sen. John Knight of Lincoln Tuesday gained 18-5 legislative approval to reduce from eight to six the number of districts in the bill to establish a statewide system of community colleges.

Knight's amendment to LB979 won 18-5 enactment.

But efforts were already underway shortly after adjournment to seek reconsideration of the amendment and return the district plan to the eight areas originally proposed by Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox.

Lincoln would be included in a 13-county district under Knight's plan. Ziebarth's proposal would place it in a six-county area.

Although the bill was pushed over its first floor test on a 22-1 vote, it still faces further amendment.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, chief sponsor of the proposal, has already endorsed in advance a proposed amendment which would permit districts to withdraw from the state plan upon a vote of the people.

In that event, Carpenter said, students from those districts should be required to pay non-resident tuition rates if they wish to attend junior colleges or area vocational technical schools in other districts.

Sen. Don Hanna Jr. of Brownlee, who attempted in vain to reduce the community college district property tax levy limit for operational expenditures from two to one mill, was the only lawmaker voting against advancement of the bill.

LB979 also authorizes an additional one-half mill levy for construction purposes.

The nine lawmakers who voted to kill the bill before it gained advancement were Sens. Clifton Batchelder of Omaha, Robert Clark of Sidney, Hanna, Rudolf Kokes of Ord, Leslie Stull of Alliance, George Syas of Omaha, Elmer Wallwey of Emerson, Ramey Whitney of Chappell, and William Wylie of Elgin.

First: Sioux, Dawes, Sheridan, Box Butte, Scotts Bluff, Banner, Kimball, Morrill, Garden, Cheyenne, Deuel Counties.

Second: Cherry, Keya Paha, Brown, Rock, Grant, Hooker, Thomas, Blaine, Loup, Arthur, McPherson, Logan, Custer, Keith, Perkins, Lincoln, Dawson, Chase, Hayes, Frontier, Gosper, Dundy, Hitchcock, Red Willow, Furnas Counties.

Third: Valley, Greeley, Sherman, Howard, Buffalo, Hall, Phelps, Kearney, Adams, Harlan, Franklin, Webster, Merrick, Polk,, Hamilton, York, Clay, Fillmore, Nuckols, Thayer Counties.

Fifth: Douglas, Sarpy, Washington Counties.

Jaycees Awarded At State Meeting For Services

The Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) were recipients of several awards at the summer state convention held in Scottsbluff.

F. James Kalal, president of the Lincoln Jaycees, received the Nebraska Jaycees Presidential award of honor for serving as chairman of the Local President's Training Seminar held in Lincoln last year.

Also honored was the "Project of the Quarter—The State Convention" hosted by the Lincoln group in April.

The Lincoln Jaycees won the state junior wrestling bid and will host the State Junior Wrestling Tournament in March, 1970.

Singer Granted Default Divorce

Los Angeles (AP) — Singer Keely Smith told a judge Tuesday her husband, James Bowen, drank excessively and occasionally struck her during their four-year marriage. She was granted a default divorce.

Appearing in court in knee-high boots and a short dress coat, the 41-year-old singer testified she never knew when Bowen, 31, the third husband, would come home. Often, she said, he yelled and screamed at her.

Superior Court Judge William P. Hogoboom ordered Bowen, a composer and record producer, to pay Miss Smith $2,500 monthly alimony until her remarriage or June 30, 1972. The couple had no children

THOMAS A ALVAREZ

Payne Appointed To Power Board

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Tuesday announced the appointment of A. E. Payne of Kearney to the board of directors of Consumers Public Power District.

Payne, who will represent 13 southwestern counties, succeeds Mark T. Moore of Kearney, who recently resigned. Payne's term runs to January, 1971.

What's New in Lincoln. Illustrated feature stories in the "Sunday Journal and Star" keep you informed.

Judge Turns Down Bid By Alvarez

Condemned slayer Thomas A. Alvarez's bid for a new trial or the withdrawal of his guilty plea to murder, was turned down Tuesday by Lancaster County District Judge Bartlett E. Boyles.

One of the former Denver man's court-appointed attorneys, Richard Goos of Lincoln, said the case would be appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Alvarez, 22, scheduled to die in the electric chair Oct. 6 for the 1966 rape-strangulation slaying of Mrs. E. M. (Mary) O'Shea of Lincoln, claimed his right to a fair trial was denied because he waived his right to jury trial and pleaded guilty, without knowing that rules for the selection of jurors would later be changed.

Goos said Alvarez was "genuinely apprehensive" concerning his legal rights and that he waived a "perfectly good defense — insanity" prior to his conviction.

Goos also said he is personally convinced that Alvarez believed that if he chose to go before a jury, all 12 members would be in favor (in principle) of the death penalty.

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas contended that nothing new had been presented on the issue which had not been raised during a lengthy evidentiary hearing held last June.

Allowing Alvarez to withdraw the guilty plea, he said, would put the court in a "ridiculous position," as it would allow cases to go "on and on" without ever being finalized.

Judge Boyles, who last June 13 denied a similar motion for a new trial, also stated he saw "no essential difference" in the testimony in Alvarez's latest attempt to gain a retrial.

Following the brief oral arguments, Judge Boyles' bench ruling overruled both motions.

Glass Container Said Hazardous

Washington (UPI) — A government investigator Tuesday identified the glass bottle, especially ones containing soda pop, as the most dangerous item in the household — 10 times more dangerous than power lawn mowers.

"Each defective bottle," testified Larry A. Schott, "is a potential bomb which can severely and permanently injure innocent persons."

Schott, chief investigator for the National Commission on Product Safety, told a public hearing of the commission that of the 263 household items within the commission's jurisdiction, "the glass bottle was the single product most frequently reported" as the cause of accidents by insurance companies.

17% of Cases

Schott testified that in a recent three-month sample of 2,390 insurance company liability cases, 17% involved bottles. "Glass bottles outnumbered power lawn mowers, a commonly recognized hazard, by more than 10 to one," Schott said.

Testifying that pop bottles were especially dangerous, Schott said that when a pressurized glass bottle fails, "the internal glass pressure explodes the glass into many razor sharp fragments."

He said the same principles applied to bottled beer, but that the investigation concentrated on "carbonated beverages because they develop approximately twice the internal pressure of bottles of beer."

Edwin Dodd, president of Owens-Illinois Inc., one of the world's largest makers of glass containers, denied that bottles posed any serious hazard.

During 1965-68, Dodd said, 48 billion of his firm's bottles were used for soft drinks and that there were only 360 claims charging defective bottles.

"A ratio of one to 120 million bottles is not unreasonable," Dodd told the commission. And of the 360 claims, he added, not all the charges were substantiated.

Schott said that about 150,000 persons a year, 90,000 of them under 15 years old, are injured by bottles, including those cut by glass litter.

He also said:

—Bottle testing to detect structural weakness is probably inadequate.

—A slight impact may cause a bottle to explode in a carton.

Returnable bottles are stronger than nonreturnable ones, but they weaken upon reuse and there is no industry standard limiting the number of times they may be used.

Aerosol cans also came in for criticism in a commission conclusion that although they are well constructed for their intended purpose, a pressure relief valve could be installed to protect persons who ignore their printed warnings and expose the cans to heat or puncture them.

Rogers Says Soviet Union Now Seeking Stable World

Tokyo (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers reported improving U.S.-Soviet relations Tuesday and said the Russians may now see they can benefit from a more stable world.

Relations between the two moving toward "a somewhat less dangerous and less hostile state," he told the first working session of the seventh U.S.-Japanese economic conference.

"The Soviet Union may see somewhat more clearly its national interests in a relatively stable world," he said.

Rogers referred to the July 10 speech of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko which made an open bid for closer U.S.-Soviet ties and indicated Soviet intentions might be tested and probed in the months ahead to determine how far their good will extends.

On his first official trip to Japan, Rogers promised, however, that "there will be no attempt or willingness on the part of the United States to resolve any issue with the Soviet Union at the expense of our allies."

Turning to Vietnam, Rogers noted the six-week lull appeared to be continuing and that the rate of infiltration from North Vietnam into the South had dropped off, but did not offer any opinion as to what this might mean.

As the three-day talks moved to the second day, the United States, primarily concerned with improving economic relations with Japan, concentrated on getting the Japanese to ease their barriers against certain imports and foreign investment, particularly in the automobile industry. The United States is also asking that Japan voluntarily control its U.S. textile exports.

A high-level U.S.-Japanese panel is tackling these problems Wednesday as well as the touchy question of the return of Okinawa to Japanese control.

Japan is pressing for the return of the U.S.-administered Ryukyu Islands, of which Okinawa is the main island.

This sensitive issue involves a tug-of-war between Japanese efforts to "conclude the postwar era" by regaining the islands lost in World War II and American concern over what effect reversion will have on operation of key U.S. military bases in Okinawa.

The economic talks, initiated by President John F. Kennedy and the late Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda in 1961, serve as a means to discuss issues of mutual interest.

Farmers Protest In Washington; Ask 'Parity, Not Charity' Action

Washingon (UPI) — Hundreds of Illinois farmers demanding higher grain prices lumbered through downtown Washington in tractors, flat-bed trucks, campers and other vehicles Tuesday to argue their case before their senators on Capitol Hill.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen was hooted down by the farmers with cries of "We Want Parity, Not Charity," when he reminded them he had introduced legislation for massive land retirement over a five-year period.

He offered to pay $20 for several sacks of grain the 200 farmers had brought with them into the Senate reception room, but once again the cry went up: "Parity, Not Charity!"

Police Escort

Three police officers escorted the farmers' caravan, stopping traffic and pedestrians at intersections as it wound its way into the city from suburban Beallesville, Md., where the farmers had spent the night. Curious crowds watched silently as the 400 vehicles, including about 100 tractors, rumbled down Massachusetts and Constitution Avenues to the District of Columbia Armory on Capitol Hill.

The caravan, organized by the United Grain Farmers of America, set out on the 750-mile journey 10 days ago from Illinois.

The demonstrators want farmers to have the right to vote on farm programs and want the government to guarantee them full parity for their crops in return for their acceptance of production controls.

Parity is a theoretically fair price farmers are paid for their products in relation to their costs. Full parity for wheat, for example, is now $2.77 a bushel, although the actual market price is about $1.25.

Higher Price Sought

The farmers want the government, in effect, to force the market price up to full parity by reducing production.

Dirksen scolded the farmers for their interruptions and told them his bill would phase out present programs.

"We'll take it out for nothing if we get a fair price," one of the demonstrators shouted.

"This isn't supposed to cost anything except subsidies . . ." Dirksen said.

". . and farmers," someone interjected. "We're going broke."

Czechoslovak Workers Stone Soviet Red Party Delegation

Prague (AP) — Angry workers stoned a Soviet Communist Party delegation arriving to visit a factory outside of Prague Tuesday, Czechoslovak informants said.

The Moscow Municipal Communist Party delegation headed by Victor V. Grishine, deputy member of the Soviet party Politbureau, left without entering the Avia light plane and airplane parts north of the capital, the sources said. No injuries were reported. There was no official confirmation of the incident.

Czechoslovak eyewitnesses said several hundred workers were outside the Avia factory as the Russians arrived. The visitors assumed it was to welcome them but they quickly returned to their cars when the welcome turned out to be jeers and rocks, the sources said.

Grishine's delegation, representing the largest single Communist Party unit in the Soviet Union, arrived last weekend on a visit aimed at papering over Soviet-Czechoslovak relations soured by the 1968 Russian invasion.

Road Littered With Money

Gotemba, Japan (AP) — It was an ill wind for Naoji Hashikata of Tokyo, a company president. When he stopped for gas he left his wallet on the trunk of his car, then drove off down the highway — scattering $1555 worth of paper yen.

Police found about two-thirds of it.

Allied Forces Kill 35 N. Vietnamese

Saigon (AP) — U.S. infantrymen swept in by helicopter Tuesday to reinforce South Vietnamese irregulars screening the Cambodia border, and the joint force killed 35 North Vietnamese troops in an eight-hour fight.

No breakdown of allied casualties was given but a U.S. spokesman said they were light.

The action, along the banks of the rain-swollen Bobo Canal 26 miles west of Saigon, was only 12 miles southeast of the area called the Citadel where American troopers killed 53 enemy soldiers in a battle that ended 12 hours earlier.

The two fights were among the heaviest since the lull in ground action began nearly six weeks ago. Both were along traditional infiltration routes toward Saigon, but American military sources said there was no indication that the enemy was preparing a major move against the capital.

Allied headquarters also reported nearly a dozen other ground encounters throughout South Vietnam Monday, including two more north of Dong Ha and within three miles of the demilitarized zone, which divides the two Vietnams.

They left a total of nearly 100 enemy soldiers killed.

The clashes, following Sunday skirmishes which the allies said accounted for 102 enemy dead, represented a definite upsurge in the level of fighting.

U.S. military analysts said the battles were not considered significant enough, however, to represent a break in the summer lull. They pointed out that while the combat might be rising, most of the engagements involved small units of less than batallion strength.

750 U.S. Troops Leave Vietnam

Saigon (UPI) — A contingent of 750 troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division will return to the United States Wednesday, raising to approximately 7,000 the number of Americans who have left South iVetnam under a Nixon administration plan to withdraw 25,000 men by the end of August.

The latest troops to be withdrawn from the war zone will board C141 Starlifter jet transports Wednesday at Bien Hoe Airbase near Saigon, sources said, and will fly to Hawaii.

Division troops withdrawn earlier flew to McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash.

DDT Gone After Use Of 2 Drugs

Washington (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration reported Tuesday evidence that two drugs used widely to control convulsions can rid the human body of residues of the pesticide DDT.

But the FDA also said "the medical significance of the discovery has not yet been established."

The agency said the evidence was uncovered by scientists conducting an FDA community pesticide study in Dade County, Fla.

The scientists discovered, FDA's announcement said, that 125 patients taking either phenobarbitol or diphenylhydantoin to control convulsive disorders had in their blood "strikingly lower levels of DDT" — in the form of a breakdown product called "DDE" — than did other persons in the community.

Lower Levels

"The research team at FDA's Dade County (Miami) project confirmed this fact by testing blood and fat samples taken in routine medical examinations and surgical procedures at the state-operated Sunland Training Centers at Miami and Orlando, Fla.," the FDA said.

The agency said a technical report on the research was published in the July 5 issue of a prominent British medical journal, Lancet, by the following investigators:

Dr. John E. Davies, associate professor of medicine at the University of Miami School of Medicine; Dr. Walter F. Edmunson, field epidemiologist for the community pesticide study in Miami; Dr. C. H. Carter, director of Sunland Hospital, Florida state division of mental retardation; and Dr. A. Barquet, Miami pesticide laboratory, Florida State Board of Health.

One Or Both

"Samples analyzed by the researchers," said the FDA's summary, "were obtained from patients divided into two groups: one group taking no drugs and the other receiving phenobarbitol, diphenylhydantoin, or both drugs.

"Chemical analysis showed that the DDT residue levels in those taking the drugs were far below the average of the general population and nonexistent in the fat of four patients."

GOP Leaders Split On Demo Proposal For Extending Surtax

Washington (AP) — Republican leaders split Tuesday on a Democratic proposal to extend the 10% surtax until Nov. 30, with the proviso that tax reforms must be ready for Senate action Oct. 31.

Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., told a news conference that the Democratic Policy Committee and Democratic members of the Senate Finance Committee were unanimously opposed to a 15-day extension of the pay roll withholding which would permit speedy action on the surtax extension.

Dirksen said he favored accepting the Democrats' proposal. But he said others in the GOP leadership were opposed, and no action was taken.

Dirksen said Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy, who attended a closed GOP session along with Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, did not feel he could speak for President Nixon.

Wants Extension

Dirksen said that before-Nixon left on his world-circling trip he reiterated that he wanted the surtax extended for six months at 10% and another six months at 5%.

Noting that the payroll withholding is due to expire Thursday, and that this would carry the surtax down with it, Dirksen said there probably will be further meetings of the Republicans.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., said the GOP Senate Policy Committee, of which he is chairman, will meet again Wednesday.

"We are confronted with an ultimatum," Allott told reporters.

"We are told by the Senate Democratic leadership it is five months or nothing.

"The only alternative appears to be to let the surtax die. That may happen. If it does, then we will see what happens."

Evenly Divided

Some of the Republican senators who attended the session said that those present were about evenly divided as to whether to bow to the Democratic plan.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Democrats were conducting a war of nerves and that the pressure was heavy because "we have the responsibility. We have the President."

But Javits said he is confident in the end there would be a surtax extension "at a minimum of five months."

"The demands of fiscal responsibility make this absolutely imperative," he said.

The Republican Policy Committee was called into session after the Democratic Policy group met and decided that the Senate would not even consider a further 15-day extension of pay check tax withhilding rates which include the surcharge.

The House has been considering a 15-day extension.

Force Showdown

The effect of this decision was to force a showdown with a Thursday deadline over the Democratic policy group's plan for a five-month surtax extension, to Nov. 30, pending Senate action on a broad tax reform bill.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, said "we made them (the Republicans) a very generous offer; they were foolish not to accept it."

Long said the Democrats see no reason to consider a 15-day withholding extension, that they prefer to bring the issue to a head immediately.

Western Airlines Cancels Flights

Los Angeles (UPI) — All Western Airlines' flights were cancelled Tuesday after 2,000 aircraft mechanics and other employes went on strike at midnight.

An airline spokesman said service would not be resumed until the strike was settled.

Western, a major air carrier in 14 states, arranged space on other airlines for persons holding reservations on some 245 flights scheduled Tuesday from 44 cities. The airline carries an average of 20,000 passengers a day during the summer, the spokesman said.

Lifting From 5th Down

Grand Island — One of the things each member of the Football Writers Association of America gets for his five bucks a year is copies of The 5th Down publication, from which most members pass along bits and pieces to their readers free of charge:

Following that approach, here are liftings from the latest issue and we're sorry if it disturbs you that all of them don't deal with sports:

NCAA executive director Walter Byers retired early during a road trip, but was awakened frequently by revelers in nearby rooms in the hotel. Byers arose at daybreak the next morning, walked down the hall and jotted down numbers of nearby rooms with "Do Not Disturb" signs hanging on the doors, then went to the lobby and called each room, challenging, "What are you doing? You were supposed to meet me down here for breakfast at 6:30."

The obituary of the College All-Star Game to be played Friday in Chicago has been written frequently in recent years, but the sponsoring Chicago Tribune has just signed a new three-year contract, extending through 1972

Citing marriage as a cause of divorce, columnist Herb Caen suggests a group called Marriage Anonymous. He explains, "You feel like getting married, we send over a dame in a frumpy housecoat with her hair up in curlers."

Former Georgia Tech coach Bobby Dodd scouted a high school game in a tough section of Birmingham, Ala., and saw a huge boy standing at the gate. "Aren't you on the football team?" asked Dodd. "No, sir," replied the lad. "The coach just likes to have me around when the fight starts."

Grambling College, a Negro school, has 32 alumni under contract to professional football teams at present.

Divorcee consulting her attorney: "You might warn my husband that if he misses any more alimony payments, I'm going to repossess him."

Classified ad in a Mississippi newspaper: "Forty-year-old farmer wants 30-year-old wife with tractor. Please send picture of tractor."

Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch, new athletic director at Wisconsin and former pro football star with the Los Angeles Rams, tells about 260-pound Detroit Lions tackle Alex Karras putting a nickel in a parking meter and when the needle went up to 60, he exclaimed, "Good grief, I've lost 200 pounds."

Joe Garagiola recently went back to his old stomping grounds on The Hill in St. Louis where he and Yogi Berra grew up. Addressing a scholar-athlete fete, Garagiola observed, "Nowadays, you hear about riots, even in elementary schools. We had the same thing when I went to school here on The Hill. We called it recess."

Joe also gave them a message from Yogi: "He said if you don't know where you're going, you're gonna wind up somewhere else."

A four-letter man on campus today could be either a star athlete or the editor of the school paper.

If the metric system is adopted, as some have suggested, ABC's Chris Schenkel foresees some headaches.

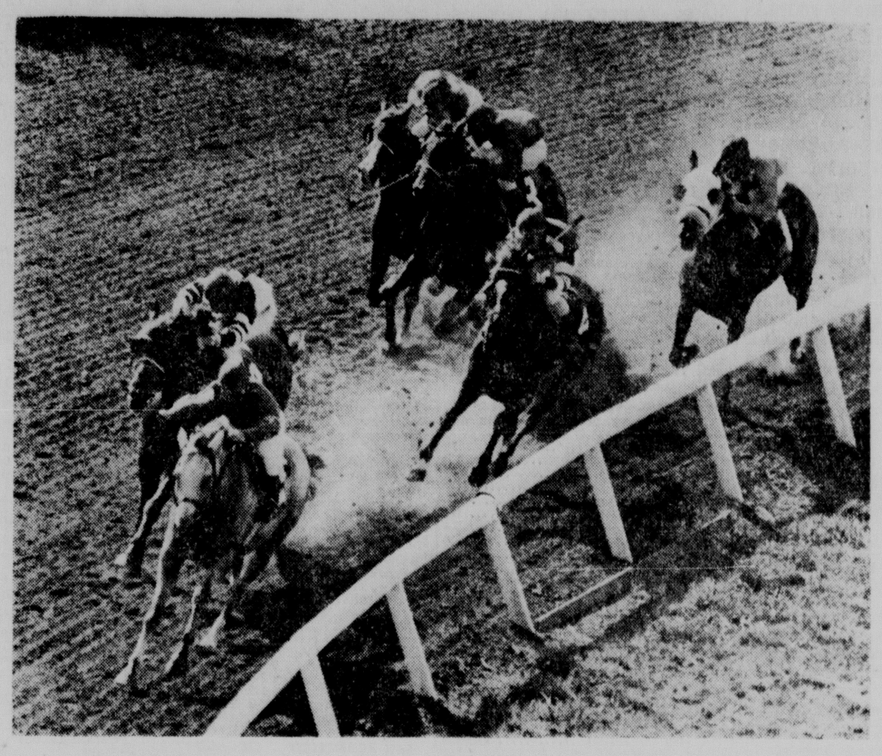

"I can hear it now," he says. "Some announcer saying it is first down and 9.144 meters to go. Or describing a 6-0, 185-pound halfbacks as 182.88036 centimeters tall and weighing 83914.599955 grams."

Spec Gammon, sports information director at Texas A & M, points out that the school which Nebraska meets on Sept. 27 in Lincoln produced more officers for World War II than Army and Navy schools combined.

Said the bride: "The two things I prepare best are meat loaf and peach cobbler." Groom: "Well, which one is this?"

A fan asked North Carolina State coach Erle Edwards if his final spring game would be open to the public. "Oh yes," Edwards answered. "We wouldn't want to miss a chance to confuse anyone."

Top Locker Gets Feature Win At Fairgrounds Meet

By KENT SAVERY
Star Sports Writer

Top Locker took the lead at the head of the stretch and held off Kid Heathen and Thunder Prince to score a narrow victory in Tuesday's featured seventh race at the State Fairgrounds.

Apprentice jockey Dennis Baxter was aboard the winner, who rated only 13-1 in the mutuels, but proved a neck better than Kid Heathen at the end of the six-furlong sprint. Kid Heathen was just neck ahead of Thunder Prince, who edged Larry's Redbird, again by a neck, for the show.

By winning, Top Locker thwarted a bid by Larry's Redbird for a third straight victory on the Lincoln oval. Larry's Redbird had scored six-furlong decisions here July 11 and 19, both times on a "good" track.

Tuesday's surface rated "fast" and Top Locker apparently found the footing to his liking. The five-year-old gelding, owned by Marvin and Jeanette Long of Grand Island, ran well toward the front of the pack as Solid Sarah and Larry's Redbird set most of the early pace.

Baxter moved his mount up on the backstretch and around the turn, then took command as they headed into the stretch. Kid Heathen and Thunder Prince made a rush at the leader but came up short at the wire.

Top Locker's mutuel supporters were rewarded to the tune of $28.40, $9.80 and $8.40, while Kid Heathen (4-1) returned $4.80 and $4.60 and Thunder Prince (6-1) $6.20.

It was Top Locker's first Lincoln win after a pair of victories at Ak-Sar-Ben this year.

The longshot winner was not the first of the day, however, as Noka, a 25-1 risk, had won the first race to return $57.40, $17.20 and $6.20 and set up the longest priced daily double of the meeting.

Noka, ridden by rookie jockey E. R. DeJesus, surprised a field headed by 4-5 favorite Maggie McGee, who was never a factor in the race. Noka joined Cookie Duster, the winning 8-5 favorite in the second race, to provide a 3-7 double worth $199.80.

The previous high double was $169.20 on July 10.

Schwartzkopf Leading By 3

. . . IN GALS' STATE GOLF

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Grand Island — Lincoln's Dorothy Schwartzkopf, bidding to add a fifth state championship to her eighth city title won last week, led qualifiers with a two-over-par 81 Tuesday in the Nebraska State Ladies Golf Tournament at Grand Island's Riverside Country Club.

For Dorothy it was a full day's work and then some by the time she walked off the 18th green here. The wife of Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf had been up since 4:45 a.m. to get her husband off on a business trip.

"We had to go back to Lincoln Monday night to get Sam ready to leave," she explained, referring to herself and daughter, Christie. That meant doing such chores as ironing and packing clothes for the mayor between Monday's pro-am and Tuesday's qualifying round for the match play competition that gets under way today.

Dorothy's first round opponent today will be Lou Vermaas of Lincoln, who had a 90 Tuesday.

"I didn't play as well today (Tuesday) as I did in Monday's pro-am," Dorothy said, referring to her three-under-par 76 in the pro-am.

"I wasn't chipping and putting as well as I had been," she added. "That's one thing I've been working on a lot. That's one reason I think I played so well last week in the city tournament and here Monday.

"But today I had 29 putts and that's too many on these small greens. I also wasn't able to get down in two from just off the green, which one should be able to do."

Dorothy's 81 gave her a three stroke cushion for medalist honors with veteran campaigner Betty Marchese of Omaha second at 84, having taken a double bogey seven on the final hole.

Another stroke back were Christie and Jean Hyland, the defending champion, who defeated Mrs. Schwartzkopf, 11-10, in last year's final match at Omaha's Happy Hollow Country Club.

Mrs. Hyland, who finished 10 shots back of Dorothy in last week's Lincoln Women's city tournament, will meet Joan Martig of Omaha today in what figures to be the best match in the championship flight's first round pairings.

A mother-daughter finale in Saturday's 36-hole final match is conceivable since Dorothy and Christie are in opposite brackets on the match play ladder and can't meet before the finals.

The last time the two met in the finals was at the Hillcrest Country Club in Lincoln, their home course, where Dorothy won her last title in 1965.

Should Mrs. Schwartzkopf and Mrs. Hyland win their first two matches, a rematch of last year's finals would take place in Friday's semifinal round here.

Dottie Bowman of Kearney won a three-way playoff for the final spot in the championship flight of 16. She had tied with Joy Kubesch of Omaha and Evelyn Heineman of Wahoo at 94.

Dorothy and Christie Schwartzkopf teamed with Lou Vermaas to give Hillcrest the team championship by a wide margin, the award being based on the three low qualifying scores from each club.

The championship flight:

Dorothy Schwartzkopf, Lincoln	81
Betty Marchese, Omaha	84
Jean Hyland, Lincoln	85
Christie Schwartzkopf, Lincoln	85
Cindy Friend, Hastings	88
Betty Abel, Lincoln	89
Kathy Waters, Omaha	89

Durocher-Wrigley Settle Walkout Feud

Chicago (AP) — Has domesticity and an ailing stomach made a new Leo Durocher?

Not so, indicated 63-year-old Durocher and his boss, owner Phil Wrigley, who Tuesday exonerated Leo after a weekend episode that seemed to indicate his pennant-bound Chicago Cubs were not the most important thing in the controversial baseball manager's life.

Wrigley had Durocher on the carpet 10 minutes Tuesday morning on the subject of the manager leaving Wrigley Field Saturday because of illness during a game with the Los Angeles Dodgers and then winding up that night at a Wisconsin boys camp of his new stepson.

Durchoer also missed Sunday's Dodger-Cub game, won by the Dodgers 6-2 after the Cubs won Saturday 3-2 in 11 innings.

"We had our signals twisted," said Wrigley, "and we got straightened out in 10 minutes. There was no apology asked, nor any given.

"I was afraid, with all the publicity given the matter, it would affect the team. But the players understood. They felt if Leo was sick, he was sick and if he had to be away, that was his business. He left the ball park sick and he was sick Sunday. And I understand his action perfectly."

Durocher, lounging in the sun on the Cub bullpen bench at Wrigley Field before Tuesday's game with the San Francisco Giants, told The Associated Press.

"The issue is closed. I met with Mr. Wrigley at his apartment for about five minutes and that's all I have to say. There was no need for any apology to anybody."

Durocher explained he has had a hiatal hernia in the middle of his stomach for more than 20 years. It has caused him to miss eight games this season.

"It acts up suddenly. Right now I feel okay, but Saturday I felt lousy. I left after the third inning, but get this straight. I had made my plans to visit my boy's camp in Wisconsin Saturday night anyway. I just left sooner. I felt sick, but I had made the commitment, so I went.

"I got back a little after 11 a.m., Sunday, but I didn't feel like going to the ball park. I told Pete Reiser 'win another one like you did Saturday. I could have gone but I didn't."

The trip Durocher made by chartered plane to Eagle River, Wis., late Saturday afternoon was to attend a parents' camp reception involving his 12-year-old stepson, Joel Goldblatt Jr.

Durocher attended the camp reception with his bride, the former Lynn Walker Goldblatt, who became his fourth wife in a plush wedding June 19.

Sunday also was the 63rd birthday for Durocher. He has been at the Cub helm since 1965

Shrine Profiles

JEFF SHADA

A football and wrestling letterman, Fremont's Jeff Shada is another of the many all-conference and all-state football choices chosen by coach Hank Amend and his staff for the star-studded Shrine Bowl's North team.

Shada

Winning honors last fall as the top high school center in the state, Shada stands six feet tall and tips the scales at 210 pounds.

Shada, who was a Boys State representative where he was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, enjoyed the study of physics in high school and is planning on a career in dentistry.

TONY VILLOTTA

A first-team choice from the rough Metro League in both football and baseball, Omaha Westside's Tony Villotta ranks both sports on a par.

Villotta

But he was also an All-State first stringer in football and leans a little to the gridiron sport, especially after having been chosen to play for the South team in the Shrine Bowl all-star game at NU's Memorial Stadium Aug 23.

Villotta, a six foot, 190-pound tackle, will be wearing No. 83 when he plays for coach Roland Carter's Rebel eleven.

Ambidextrous, Tony has actually played in baseball games where he has thrown half the contest each way.

—SUPERSTARS MISSING—

Aggressiveness Is Key To All-Star Fortunes

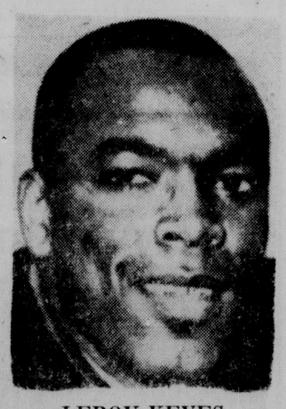

Chicago (AP) — Some superstars, like O. J. Simpson and Leroy Keyes, are missing, but aggressiveness will be a big plus for the collegians against the Joe Namath-led New York Jets in the 36th All-Star football game at Solider Field Friday night.

All-Star coach Otto Graham told a throng of almost 2,000 grid fans at a Junior Association of Commerce testimonial Tuesday that his squad of pro-bound stars was his most spirited of nine All-Star groups he has directed.

"This is by far the best group of boys I've ever had," said Graham, returning to the All-Star helm after a three-year stint as coach of the Washington Redskins.

"Despite the absence of some super stars, this squad came to camp ready to work. I'm certain these All-Stars are going to give it 110 per cent Friday night.

"It certainly is the most aggresive unit I've had in coaching this team."

LEROY KEYES

Graham, who produced the last two All-Star victories — over the Green Bay Packers in 1963 and the Detroit Lions in 1958 — admittedly has his problems.

Besides the absenteesim of such contract-bartering pro draftees as Simpson of Southern California, Leroy Keyes of Purdue and Ron Johnson of Michigan, Graham has lost his No. 1 center, Jack Rudnay of Northwestern through injury.

Rudnay, No. 4 draft pick of the Kansas City Chiefs, suffered a wrenched back in a game-type scrimmage against the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday which the All-Stars lost 6-0.

He will be replaced by Jon Kolb, 240-pound Oklahoma State product who was third draft choice of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Back up offensive centers are Xavier's John Shinnera, a first-round draft selection at offensive guard by the New Orleans Saints, and Mike Montler, also an offensive guard pick by the Boston Patriots.

The Jets are due to arrive from their training camp at Hempstead, N.Y., late Thursday and head for a brief workout under the lights at Soldier Field.

Graham has not indicated his starting line-up, but his opening quarterback presumably will be Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame, one of the four All-Star co-captains named for the contest sponsored by the Chicago Tribune.

Aunt Priscilla's Ship Comes In

Well snap my garter! Your poor old Aunt Priscilla isn't so poor anymore.

In fact when they cart me off to the home for old handicappers I might just have a little smile on my face. At least the girls won't be laughing at me now.

Priscilla

Top Locker, who I bet to win Tuesday's seventh race, got the job done in a close finish and returned $28.40. My other win choice, Uncranked in the eighth, didn't get uncranked soon enough, but I don't even care.

My spree fund, which started at $100, is now back up to $99.40. With my eye on the old $100 mark, today's $2 win choices are Me Go in the fifth and Dancin Blaze in the sixth.

—McCOVEY HOMERS—

Mays' Triple Pushes Giants Past Cubs, 4-2

Chicago (AP) — Willie Mays tripled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and Willie McCovey, who earlier had slammed his 32nd homer, scored him with a sacrifice fly to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday.

Bobby Bonds opened the seventh with his third hit of the game, a single to left. After Don Mason grounded out, Mays tripled to the right field corner.

WILLIE MAYS

McCovey then flied to left, scoring Mays who collided with catcher Randy Hundley at the plate. Mays had to leave the game as he injured his left knee and skinned his right knee.

McCovey opened the scoring with his homer in the second and the Giants made it 2-0 in the third when Bonds doubled and scored on Mason's single.

Rookie lefthander Ron Bryant checked the Cubs on two hits in the first four innings but Jim Hickman led off the fifth with his seventh home run. One out later Don Young singled, pinch batter Ken Rudolph walked and Glenn Beckert singled home the tying run.

In other National League games Tuesday night, Pittsburgh split a doubleheader with the Los Angeles Dodgers, winning the first game, 4-2 in 10 innings, and losing the second, 6-5; St. Louis ripped San Diego, 10-4; Cincinnati stopped Montreal, 4-2; and doubleheaders between Houston and New York and Atlanta and Philadelphia were postponed by rain.

In the American League, Minnesota swept a pair from Detroit, winning 5-2 and 11-5; Cleveland took both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago, 4-3, and 9-5; and Baltimore stopped Kansas City, 4-1.

Ashe Will Ask For South African Visa

. . . TO TEST RACIAL POLICY

The New York Times

Waldwick, N.J., — Arthur Ashe said today he will test South Africa's apartheid policy later this year by formally filing a request for a visa to play in South African Open Tennis Championships.

"This time I won't be silent," the top-ranking United States player said, with just a trace of anger. "I'll go right to the South African Embassy in New York. If they want to turn me down, they'll have to do it right there in front of all of you."

Ashe is the top-seeded player in the $20,000 Eastern Grasscourt Tennis Championships this week. Before leaving for his first round match at an indoor club in nearby Saddle River, the U.S. Open Champion said he saw little change in South Africa's policy.

The president of the South African Lawn Tennis Union, Alf Chalmers, said yesterday and reaffirmed today that "we would be delighted to see Arthur Ashe competing in the South African National Championships this year."

But Ashe said today: "As long as the government is silent, nothing's changed. Last year, I had hoped things could be worked out privately, but this year I won't be silent."

Ashe had informally sought permission to play in several South African tournaments earlier this year. His request was approved by the liberal Leaning South African Lawn Tennis Union but was turned down by the government. The government has made no policy announcements since.

South African government officials have said that Ashe never filed a formal request for a visa...But Ashe and sources close to the scene in South Africa insist that the government turned down all informal offers and never intended to issue a visa.

Negroes Win County Offices In Special Alabama Election

Eutaw, Ala. (AP) — Negro candidates swept a special election Tuesday to win political control of rural Greene County in a possible prelude to black gains in surrounding counties of Alabama.

The six Negro candidates won narrow victories for four county commission seats and two school board seats. With one Negro on the five-member school board already, the election gave blacks control of both major governing bodies — a first in Alabama.

Complete unofficial returns were released by Probate Judge Dennis Herndon, chairman of the five-member county commission and, after the new slate takes office, the only white member.

It was Herndon who ruled that the black candidates running under the National Democratic Party of Alabama (NDPA) banner, failed to qualify properly and barred them from the ballot in the general election in November, 1968.

The NDPA slate won despite a dispute over the absentee ballots which went 204-1 for the white office holders, who had defeated the black candidates in the 1968 Democratic primary.

It was after that defeat that the Negro candidates tried to qualify under the splinter party banner which won in the Tuesday election — held as the result of a U.S. Supreme Court order.

A crowd of Negroes, gathered on the courthouse lawn here, yelled and cheered wildly when they heard the election results.

The victors will take office as soon as they have been certified following the official canvass of votes next Friday.

The precedent-breaking election did not pass without problems. Minutes after the polls closed, NDPA head Dr. John Cashin challenged all the absentee votes cast, a county official said.

County Atty. Ralph Banks said he was summoned by election officials after the verbal challenge was made by Cashin, serving as a poll watcher in Eutaw, the county seat.

Banks said he told officials to go ahead with the counting. He said he advised Cashin the challenge would have to be filed in writing with a federal judge, and that Cashin remained to watch the counting.

Banks said Cashin contended two dead persons were listed as voting absentee on the list of 207. In the past, nearly all absentee ballots cast in Greene County elections have been from whites.

Trade Fair Shows Trends In Educational Equipment

Thousands of teachers and students poured into the University of Nebraska Student Union ballroom Tuesday to view the instructional communications trade fair sponsored by the NU Extension Division Instructional Media Center.

Twenty-eight state and national exhibitors are demonstrating the latest educational trends in audio-visual equipment and materials production. The display continues through Wednesday afternoon.

The potential for instructional communications is introduced with a multi-media multi-screen production by the Eastman Kodak Co. Emphasis of the new programmed learning is on the response of students, it was pointed out.

Among the new equipment on display is a response learning system in which a sound-film presents educational material to students, with the teacher able to stop the film at intervals and flash a question on the screen by using a slide projector.

Students give their answer to the question by pressing a button on individual responders. Their answer is flashed to a console where the instructor is operating the audio-visual equipment so that he can see who knows the correct answer. The machine even figures the percentage of the class having the right answer.

Several of the exhibitors, including the production center of Educational Service Unit No. 6, are demonstrating new techniques in producing materials that are both efficient and economical for teachers and schools.

A visual aid panel produced by Eberhard Faber was used in the development of the Apollo 11 Lunar Module.

The panels were designed to replace chalkboards and incorporate more versatility, according to the creator Warren Detrick.

Drawing Of Man Circulated In Search For Sex Slayer

Ann Arbor, Mich. (UPI) — A color composite drawing of a motorcyclist, put together with the aid of two persons among the last to see a pretty young Eastern Michigan University coed alive, was circulated Tuesday in the search for the sex killer of seven girls.

A clerk from Wigs by Joan, a small shop in nearby Ypsilanti where Karen Sue Beineman, 18, purchased a wiglet last Wednesday, and a clerk from a second store, gave police the description of the young man who drove off with her on a motorcycle.

Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter Krasny confirmed that an Ann Arbor home, about 12 miles from the Eastern Michigan University campus in Ypsilanti, was being watched for the return of a young man who reportedly had not been seen since last Wednesday. Krasny said it would be "safe to say" that officers wanted to question the young man both because of his described physical appearance and that of his motorcycle.

The petite freshman disappeared from Ypsilanti shortly after she told roommates she was going to make some purchases in the city. She was apparently killed late Wednesday and her body was found in a gulley late Saturday in the same 15-mile triangle between the two university cities where the bodies of six other murdered young women have been found in the past two years.

The composite picture showed a good-looking young man in his early 20s with thick dark hair hanging in a swirl over his forehead, sideburns almost down to the bottom of his earlobes, brown eyes and clean shaven.

"We wanted the most logical composite we could get and we feel we have it now," said Dectective Harold Kerr of the Washtenaw County sheriff's department The picture was being distributed on both the Eastern Michigan and University of Michigan campuses in hopes someone might recognize the face.

County Prosecutor William Delhey said tips have been coming in at the rate of about 30 an hour and about 40 had been checked on Tuesday alone.

"I guess we would have to say there were no good ones today, but some of the early tips were very promising," Delhey said of Miss Beineman's brutal slaying.

Investigators Continue Kennedy Wreck Probe

Edgartown, Mass. (AP) — Investigators out of the Martha's Vineyard island area are working quietly to obtain statements from guests at the July 18 party that preceded Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's auto accident.

It was learned that the prosecution in the case in which Kennedy pleaded guilty last Friday to leaving the scene of an accident is sensitive to criticism about the court procedure.

Critics have said not enough was done to clarify events surrounding the mishap on neighboring Chappaquiddick Island.

Mary Jo Kopechne, 28, died in the accident, which went unreported for more than eight hours.

The investigation, it was learned, is aimed at filling in some of the blanks in Kennedy's two public accounts of the night of the accident. Sources indicated those in charge of the prosecution sought help from personnel in other agencies to obtain statements off the island from persons who attended the party.

There is a chance that information turned up in the probe never will be made public. The local prosecutors say Kennedy's guilty plea officially ended their work.

In conflict with Kennedy's explanation of the incident is an account by Christopher Look Jr., a deputy sheriff. He said he believes he saw the Kennedy car at 12:50 a.m. July 19, at an intersection seven-tenths of a mile from the narrow bridge from which the car plunged into a tidal pond.

Kennedy, in his statement to police July 19 and in his televised explanation one week later, gave the time he left the party as 11:15 p.m. the night before.

Based on Look's testimony, authorities believe it possible that the accident happened closer to 1 a.m. July 19 than to 11:15 p.m. July 18.

3-Year-Old Hurt In Auto Mishap

Eric Zornes, three-year-old son of Theodore L. Zornes of 7130 Eastborough, suffered a possible fractured collarbone in an auto-pedestrian accident on Eastborough near the child's home Tuesday afternoon.

Police said the automobile, driven by John E. Page, 17, of 749 Northborough, was traveling south when a passenger in the car reportedly told Page he had hit a pedestrian. The car stopped and the Zornes child was reportedly found lying in the street.

Police reports indicated that the child had been crossing the street from behind a parked car when he saw the car approaching, and put out his hands to protect himself. He reportedly bounced off the right front door of the vehicle.

Young Zornes was under observation at St. Elizabeth Hospital Tuesday night and was listed in good condition.

Stocks Again Slide To Loss

New York (AP) — An effort to finish in the winning column faded in later trading Tuesday, and the stock market again slid to another loss, with the Dow Jones industrial average closing at its lowest level in more than 2½ years.

The technical advance that enabled the DJI to shake off an early loss and climb 6.59 points by 11:30 a.m. apparently "failed to draw a substantial following," an analyst said, and the indicator coasted to a 4.27 loss and another new 1969 low.

The DJI's close at 801.96 was the lowest it had closed since the 791.14 of Jan. 4, 1967.

Advances led declines by better than 100 issues during the session, but this also was reversed. Of 1,572 issues traded, 948 declined and 381 advanced.

Trading sped up, however, with 13.63 million shares changing hands — the largest since 13.64 million shares were traded June 11 — compared with 11.80 million Monday.

Beech Aircraft, most active largely because of a 225,700-share block, closed off 1 at 19.

There were 2 new highs for the year —set by Crown Cork & Seal when issued and Crown Cork & Seal preferred — and 633 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off 2.0 at 284.8 — the lowest it has closed since the 284.6 of Oct. 24, 1966 — with industrials off 3.0, rails off .9, and utilities off 1.2.

The market's advance was described by analysts as "largely-technical in nature" and resulted "from the market's oversold condition, a condition which still exists."

Prices continued to slip on the American Stock Exchange, with the exchange index off 34 cents at $25.92, after falling 80 cents Monday. Of 1,058 issues traded, 691 declined and 175 advanced.

Volume totaled 6.0 million shares — the largest since 6.6 million shares change hands June 4 — compared with 4.95 million Monday.

Cattle Are Steady To 25c Higher

Omaha (AP) —The cattle market drew support from moderate supplies around the terminal markets and from the wholesale beef trade Tuesday.

Packed by a strong to 50 higher dressed steer and heifer market Monday and fully steady quotations on early activity Tuesday, buyers paid steady to 25 higher prices on a more attractive outlay of fed steers. Heifers were steady to strong in active trading.

Cows were fully 25 higher as rail prices held fully steady.

Bulls and feeders were unchanged.

Three loads of high-choice and prime 1,225 lb. steers cleared at 31.50 with another dozen loads of comparable 1,100-1,225 lbs. at 30.65-31.25; bulk choice sold 30.50 and down.

Four loads of toppy 925-975 lb. heifers were grouped in a bracket of 29.75-30.00.

Beef cows bulked to 21.50, a few extra good brought 21.75, semi-beef types cleared at 20.75-21.00, a few 21.25.

Butcher hogs sold steady to 25 lower, sows mostly steady. Sale prices were very evidently reflecting the increased showing of lighter underfinished butchers included in the run of around six thousand.

Choice shipping type porkers scaling around 210-240 lbs. moved at 25.75-26.10 with about a deck at 26.20-26.25. However, lighter 180-210 lb. weights were traded 24.00-26.00. Heavier weights sold on downwards to 24.25.

Sows under 600 lbs. were ticketed at prices ranging 22.00-24.50.

Slaughter lambs were steady at 28.00-28.75, a small showing of good to choice collected 27.50-28.00.

Wheat Futures Make Comeback

Chicago (AP) — Wheat futures made a comeback of well over 1 cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday in a rally that was braked by relatively meager offerings and, near the close, by some profit taking on the rise.

The comeback began after wheat hit a 27-year low Monday and finished around 4½ cents lower in that session.

The rally imparted strength to corn and oats.

At the close Tuesday, wheat was up 1⅜ to 1¾ cents, September 1.22¾; Corn was ⅜ to ⅞ of a cent higher, September 1.20⅞; Oats were ¼ to ½ cent higher, September 58⅞; Rye was ½ to 1½ cents lower, September 1.11, and soybeans were ⅛ to ¼ cent higher, August 2.63⅜.

Liquor License Application Withdrawn By Auditorium

The State Liquor Control Commission said Tuesday the application to sell liquor at the Pershing Municipal Auditorium has been withdrawn.

The City Council Monday unamimously recommended denial of the Class C Liquor License application submitted by Pershing Muncipal Auditorium Association, Inc., a non-profit corporation composed of members of the city auditorium advisory board.

Auditorium Board Chairman Richard Chapin said Tuesday he was surprised the council voted against the license application.

The City Council earlier this year approved the steps needed to form a non-profit corporation which could then request a license.

No Indication

"At no time did the council give us any idea it would not approve the sale of liquor at the auditorium by the non-profit corporation," Chapin said.

The board chairman said the advisory group would not have pursued the license in the manner it did, had council members indicated they would not support the plan.

The council had instructed City Atty. Norman Krivosha to formulate an alternate way to provide alcohol at the auditorium.

Private Enterprise

Some council members said consideration should be given to private enterprise providing the liquor.

Chapin said he would "wholeheartedly endorse having private enterprise provide the liquor."

The board had recommended having alcohol at the auditorium only for private functions to attract conventions.

Net Earnings Of CB&Q Up Through June

Revenues and net income of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad during the first six months of the year increased, President William J. Quinn announced Tuesday.

Consolidated net income for the second quarter of 1969 was estimated to be $3.9 million, compared with $2.5 million last year. The estimate for consolidated revenues was $87 million, up from $80.5 million in the 1968 quarter.

For the first half of the year, consolidated net income was about $5.8 million, the same as in the first half of 1968. Consolidated revenues of $170.6 million compared to $160.7 million last year.

Quinn said consolidated results were aided by strengthened shipments on the Fort Worth and Denver Railway during June. During part of the first half of the year, earnings on that railway were depressed as a result of a traffic loss during the gulf ports dock-workers strike.

Grain shipments on the CB& Q began to increase in April Quinn said, and in June were 49% ahead of the previous year. Grain shipments the first 20 days of July ran slightly above last July's level, he said.

Two Inmates Get Added Sentences

Two State Reformatory inmates who walked away from a work detail June 14, and allegedly burglarized a farm home, and stole a truck have been sentenced to additional terms in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Daniel L. Jones, 20, and Richard Pokorny, 17, both of Omaha, pleaded guilty to prison escape, burgarizing a farm near Denton and stealing a pickup truck.

Lancaster County District Judge Bartlett Boyles sentenced the pair to two-to-three years in prison on each count with the sentences to be served consecutively with the ones they are now serving.

ABM Supporter Given Approval To Adviser Job

Washington (UPI) — The nomination of a proponent of the anti-ballistic missile system to be a disarmament adviser to President Nixon was narrowly approved Tuesday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The committee voted 6 to 4 to confirm William J. Casey of New York as a member of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Advisory Committee.

Casey is chairman of the Citizens Committee for Peace With Security, a New York-based organization which has attempted to mobilize public support for the Safeguard ABM. Committee opponents of the Sageguard contended Casey's views were irreconcilable with his duties to find ways of achieving international arms control.
